Undersea collision off Russia

DAMAGED nuclear sub Pintado is shown in drydock in Guam for repair last year after its reported collision with an armed Soviet ballistic missile sub.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A Soviet nuclear submarine rammed the U.S. nuclear-powered submarine Pintado in 1974 while the Pintado was engaged in an intelligence gathering mission for the Navy and CIA in Russian Pacific territorial waters, it was reported Thursday.

The San Diego Evening Tribune said both submarines were armed with nuclear weapons and were submerged when the incident occurred in May 1974. There were no casualties among the Pintado crew of 107.

The Tribune said in a copyrighted story that the Pintado was in the Russian waters as part of a Navy-CIA operation designed to gather intelligence and test Soviet military capabilities.

While the collision was not publicly reported, top congressional leaders were said to have been briefed on the incident. The collision provoked no formal protest by the Soviet government.

The Tribune said it based its story on conversations with submariners, Navy Department officials, congressional sources and a Soviet Embassy official in Washington, D.C.

It said the San Diego-based Pintado was cruising submerged at a depth of about 200 feet in the sea approaches to the Soviet naval base at Petropavlovsk on the Kamchatka Peninsula when the incident occurred.

Sonar devices failed to detect the approach of a Soviet Yankee-class ballistic missile submarine, and the two undersea craft collided virtually head-on.

The Soviet submarine surfaced within 30 seconds of the collision. The newspaper said no information was available on the extent of damage or whether there were any casualties among the crew, estimated at 120.

The collision smashed much of the Pintado's detection sonar, a complex device fitted with about 1,800 separate electronic sensors. In addition, a torpedo tube hatch on the starboard side was jammed shut, and a diving control fin sustained moderate damage.

The Pintado left the scene at top underwater speed for the U.S. submarine base on Guam, where it was placed in drydock and covered with a tentlike canopy. Marine sentries and Navy boats patrolled the drydock approaches while repairs lasting seven weeks were made.

The Tribune said submariners aware of the Pintado incident said the boat at times was close enough to Petropavlovsk to study inner harbor activities through its periscopes.

It said part of the ship's mission, similar to under-water intelligence operations begun in 1954 under the code name "Operation Holystone," may have been to test the effectiveness of Soviet electronic warning sensors seeded at the harbor entrance.

The Pintado, commissioned in 1971, is one of the Sturgeon class of quiet-running craft specially designed to detect and fight enemy submarines. They are equipped with conventional and nuclear torpedoes and with nuclear warhead rockets called SUBROC, which can be fired from a torpedo tube.

EPA cites 'massive failures'

'Autos not meeting smog codes'

By DAVID BURNHAM
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — A confidential report by the Environmental Protection Agency has concluded that there has been a "massive failure" of automobiles to meet federal antipollution standards.

The report, completed less than a month ago by the agency's Mobile Source Enforcement Division, says "the data indicate that only at low mileage are any of the standards even approached."

The agency's report on the failure of its enforcement procedures was made public by Ralph Nader one week after President Ford asked Congress to amend the Clean Air Act of 1970 to give U.S.

automobile manufacturers the five-year freeze they had requested on auto-emission controls.

In a letter to the President, Nader said that tables accompanying the report showed that 1974 model automobiles "put out more than twice as much pollution as standards would permit."

The report shows, Nader said, "that 1974 cars, which are required to reduce hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide emissions by 61 and 62 per cent respectively over pre-1968 levels, in fact achieve only a 15 and 22 per cent reduction over the actual useful life of the car."

Noting the President's assertion that the automobile is rapidly becoming less of a contributor to air pollution, Nader said "present emission standards do not protect the public health as you imply because the auto industry does not build cars to meet the emission standards (no matter how lenient) as they come off the assembly line and as they are used."

An EPA spokesman said the report had been prepared by the agency's Mobile Source Enforcement facility in Ann Arbor, Mich., in connection with an analysis of the effectiveness of present enforcement.

The report said the EPA's existing enforcement technique — based mostly on government certification that a prototype automobile meets a given pollution standard — has not worked.

The report said statistical analysis indicated that the single most important new strategy to assure that manufacturers were meeting the required standards would be EPA inspection of automobiles as they came off the assembly lines.

The report also called for increased emphasis on the inspection of automobiles on the street to see whether they were meeting required standards, and the use of recall requirements and automobile warranties. The last recommendation would tend to shift the cost of repairing faulty automobiles from the consumer to the industry.

The report suggested that automobiles manufactured most recently were less able to meet requirements than those produced several years ago.

In his letter to Ford, Nader also cited a study by the National Academy of Sciences that concluded the government should continue to tighten pollution standards. Nader said the Academy of Sciences report had been sent to the President by Frank Zarb, head of the Federal Energy Administration.

"The statutory emission standards for hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide for 1978 and subsequent model year light-duty vehicles should be maintained. These levels are both feasible and worthwhile," the National Academy of Sciences report said.

Claims $6 billion savings

Ford defends his vetoes

CINCINNATI (AP) — President Ford defended his veto record Thursday, declaring that so far he has saved taxpayers an estimated $6 billion in federal funds that would have been spent by 1977.

Ford said he realized every veto would bring some complaints. He added Americans expect the President to protect their interests and "in most cases it is a positive means of achieving legislative compromise and improvement — better legislation in other words."

Ford came to Cincinnati to dedicate a new $30-million National Environmental Research Center, where he said he was in favor of "a detente with nature" to reconcile the needs of society and nature.

But he said he would have to weigh the factors in deciding whether some worthy environmental objective would slow down the nation's effort to regain energy independence and a stronger economy.

Ford drew applause when he gave his pledge that the nation will remain committed to continued progress in cleaning up the environment: "As long as I have anything to say about it, this country's symbol will never be an empty beer can in a river of garbage."

The President's one-day trip in which he made three speeches, also included a stop in Cleveland to address a gathering of some 1,300 Republicans at a Cuyahoga County fund-raising dinner.

Because of the political nature of the dinner, Press Secretary Ron Nessen announced that the Republican National Committee would be picking up the tab for the entire cost of Ford's transportation.

Ford's comments on the veto came in a speech prepared for delivery to the Ohio River Valley White House Conference at the Cincinnati Convention Center, where other administration officials had discussed energy and economic problems.

Ford noted that on his visit to Cincinnati last year the administration was worrying about an annual rate of inflation of more than 12 per cent. He said he could now report that the rate of inflation had been reduced to less than 6 per cent and that "by the end of the year we hope it will be even lower."

Ford said he wanted to make sure Americans understand what he is doing with the veto.

He said the Founding Fathers put the veto power in the Constitution as a vital part of the system of checks and balances.

He cited the records of President Truman, who he said exercised the veto 250 times and was only overridden 12 times, and of President Eisenhower, who used it 181 times, overridden only twice.

Missing cyclists found OK

PORTERVILLE (AP) — A search crew Thursday evening found seven missing Southern California trail bike riders and reported all were in good condition.

They were found in extremely remote and rugged back trails of the Sequoia National Forest, the Tulare County Sheriff's office said. The office at Porterville got the word from a field radio used by the helicopter and ground crew searchers.

The search began at noon Thursday after friends reported the bikers had not been heard from since they left Tuesday. They were riding on crisscrossing dirt trails in the Troy Meadows area.

Jobless rate drops in L.A., Orange counties

Combined News Services

Jobless rates in Los Angeles and Orange counties — along with the state as a whole — dropped significantly in June on a seasonally adjusted basis, the State Employment Office reported. In each case the drop was statistical rather than real.

The nation's unemployment rate dropped 0.6 to 8.6 per cent.

In Los Angeles County, the seasonally adjusted rate moved downward from May's 10.3 per cent to 9.9 per cent. The unadjusted rate, which does not take into account the swelling labor force with the end of school, rose from 9.9 per cent in May to 11 per cent in June with 357,400 jobless, compared with 320,600 the previous month.

In Orange County, the adjusted rate slipped from 9.7 per cent in May to 8.9 per cent in June. The number of jobless rose from 66,000 in May to 77,200 in June, for unadjusted rates of 8.4 and 9.7 per cent respectively.

California's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate dropped sharply last month from 10.6 per cent to 9.9 per cent.

But the actual number of jobless Californians hit the one million mark for the first time since the state began keeping unemployment records, primarily due to thousands of students and graduates joining the labor market.

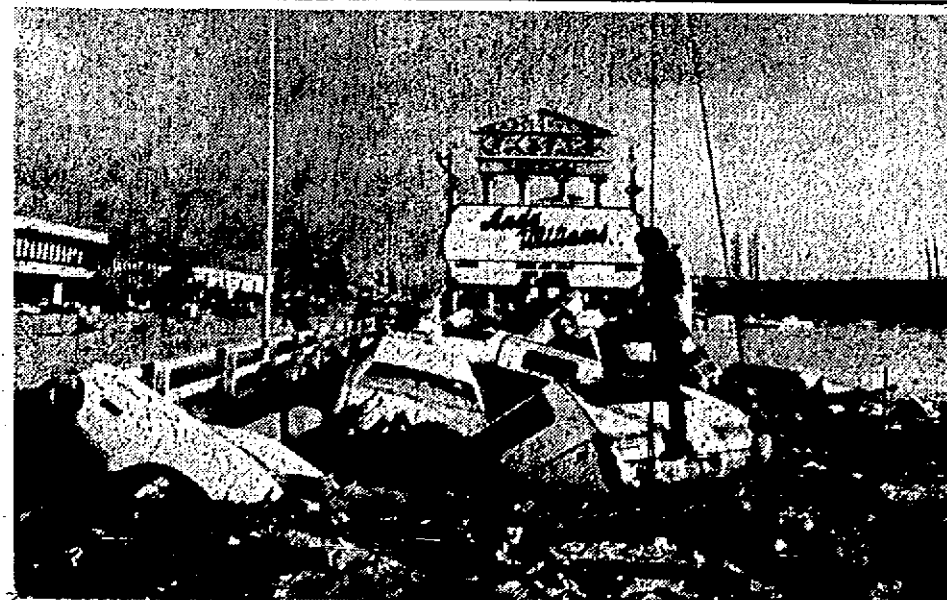

There were 1,021,200 unemployed Californians in June — up from 954,200 in May, according to the state's employment director, Jim Lorenz.

"The increase is seasonal and was expected," Lorenz said. "There is always an increase in unemployment between May and June, good times and bad, because of the large number of young people entering the labor force at the beginning of the summer."

HE SAID the 0.7 per cent drop in the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate "does not show a trend."

"It is a one-time quirk in the system, and we must wait for next

Flood floats cars in Vegas

United Press International

A cloudburst sent floodwaters roaring down the surrounding mountains and through Las Vegas, Nev., Thursday, virtually stopping traffic on the glittering gambling Strip.

Between 150 and 200 cars were floating in the parking lot of Caesar's Palace hotel and other casinos were threatened by rising waters.

The flash floods triggered a rash of traffic accidents, power outages and lightning strikes on the eve of the Fourth of July.

Police said there were no injuries but firemen stood by to evacuate an apartment complex east of the Strip. At least two buildings were struck by lightning and set afire.

The median along the famous Strip was covered with water. Firemen said floodwaters were threatening to enter the front door of the Flamingo Hotel, across the street from Caesar's Palace. Caesar's is near a flood control channel.

Water also was reported spilling into homes and police said most Las Vegas turnoffs from Interstate 15 — the main highway between the desert resort and Los Angeles — were flooded and inaccessible.

N.Y. trashmen end strike

Combined News Services

NEW YORK — Garbagemen ended a three-day wildcat strike Thursday and began hauling away 50,000 tons of rotting refuse—enough to fill a thousand boxcars—stacked up on the streets of the nation's largest city. The break in the sanitation strike — one of the most heated and certainly the most pungent of a number of walkouts in the nation — came after the budget-battered city and the state government reached agreement that would give the city an additional $330 million in taxing power which would allow it to rehire many of the city's 2,934 laid-off sanitationmen at least temporarily. They were among 19,090 city employees ordered fired.

Space preparations

CAPE CANAVERAL — A leak in the spacesuit of one of three American astronauts marred an otherwise perfect rehearsal Thursday for the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project, space agency officials said. Astronauts Brig. Gen. Tom Stafford, Donald K. Slayton and Vance Brand climbed into the Apollo spacecraft perched atop a Saturn rocket. The leak was discovered in Brand's suit, but the rehearsal continued until a simulated liftoff occurred. Each astronaut has a spare suit for use in emergencies. Meantime, Russian cosmonauts Thursday flew from their training site outside Moscow to blastoff site near Baikonur in Central Asia.

NAACP sues HEW

WASHINGTON — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed suit Thursday charging the government has failed to enforce civil rights law in schools in most Northern and Western states. The suit charges the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Office of Civil Rights has not acted to end segregation in elementary and secondary schools in 71 districts in 21 states.

Watergate jury

WASHINGTON — The last of the Watergate grand juries, the only one to receive testimony from former President Richard Nixon, was discharged Thursday with an admonition that its oath of secrecy "follows you to your grave." The jury has been sitting and hearing evidence in Watergate-related cases for 18 months, taking up the investigations that proved too much for the two other juries to handle.

India sets up 'vigilantes'

NEW DELHI — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government has ordered able-bodied men in two states to join special vigilante squads set up to combat isolated instances of sabotage, the Press Trust of India news agency reported Thursday. The news agency, a private organization whose dispatches are approved by the government before transmission under the terms of the state of emergency decreed last week, said the Punjab government ordered all men living in villages or towns three miles of railway lines to join the squads. The vigilantes patrol railway tracks, power lines and other government facilities at night, it said. It said similar squads were set up in Haryana. Both states are in India's agricultural "green belt."

TEHRAN, Iran — A car carrying terrorists swerved in front of a U.S. Embassy automobile in downtown Tehran on Thursday afternoon, two men got out and one in a police uniform opened fire, killing a young Iranian employee of the embassy. ### Secret Mideast talks

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Simcha Dinitz of Israel flew secretly to the Virgin Islands to confer on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on what Israel could expect to receive for making a new Egyptian-Israeli accord possible. The two-day visit by the Israeli envoy, announced by the State Department Thursday, was undertaken at Israel's request. It reportedly had two main objectives: To get a map from the U.S. detailing Egyptian demands on the extent of Israel's withdrawal in the Sinai as part of another interim measure, and to seek firm American assurances that if Israel gives up the two strategic mountain passes of Mitla and Gidi sought by Egypt, she could count on future American economic, military, and political support.

Anti-oil import ads

NEW YORK — The Federal Energy Administration plans to ask for free television time for an advertising campaign promoting energy conservation to cut foreign oil imports. But the FEA will have to organize the campaign itself after being turned down by a public service agency. The Ad Council, which organizes ad campaigns free of charge for nonprofit organizations, turned down the FEA's antioil campaign, for political reasons. The FEA said it has no plans for a fully paid commercial ad campaign, but it will pay an advertising agency to film the ads. The FEA said it will circulate the ads to local television stations around the country asking the stations to donate free air time.

Judge indicted

DETROIT — A federal grand jury Thursday indicted state Supreme Court Justice John Swainson, the last Democratic governor of Michigan, on charges of taking a $20,000 bribe from a convicted burglar. Swainson, indicted on seven counts of conspiracy, bribery and perjury, is the first high court judge in state history to face criminal charges. Swainson, 49, surrendered to federal authorities about an hour after the indictment was returned, pleaded innocent, and said he will not resign his $40,000-a-year post. The indictment said he accepted a $20,000 bribe from a convicted burglar in exchange for a Supreme Court review that led to a 1973 decision reversing the conviction.

Output campaign

TOKYO — China is mounting a major steel-making campaign, exhorting workers to have red-hot furnaces and overcome blistering heat to produce the metal needed to modernize the nation's industry, agriculture and arms. One article in the Communist Party newspaper People's Daily described how workers repairing a steel factory's furnace didn't wait for it to cool, but put on clothing soaked in water and rushed to work. Another article told of miners eating at work sites, sleeping at mine shaft entrances and even eating with one hand and driving trucks with the other. Yet another called on party officials to join in "front-line" labor to set an example of breaking away from old desk-bound bourgeois habits. The campaign of almost daily articles begun in late June has stressed the theme that steel is the key link to modernization, and any unit that falls behind production targets can hold up the whole-nation's progress.

Man convicted of killing 11 relatives

Combined News Services

A panel of three judges in Hamilton, Ohio, Thursday convicted James Rupert of aggravated murder in the Easter slaying of 11 members of his family — the largest mass murder of a single family in U.S. history.

In final arguments, defense lawyers described Rupert as a "sick, psychotic, mentally ill individual."

The prosecution has maintained Rupert planned the murders to inherit a $300,000 estate, and prosecutor John Holcomb said in his final statement that the slayings were not "a $300,000 coincidence."

Rupert, a 41-year-old bachelor, pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to 11 counts of aggravated murder in the slayings of his mother, brother, sister-in-law and eight nieces and nephews.

The killings occurred during a family gathering at Rupert's mother's home. The defense has acknowledged that Rupert, using three handguns and a rifle, committed the murders. But it says he did it in an uncontrollable rage.

As he had been throughout the trial, Rupert was emotionless as the verdict was read after nearly four hours of deliberations by the three judges, who were appointed after Rupert waived a jury trial.

Staying on

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz turned 68 on Thursday but said he will stay on the job anyway.

"We had planned to leave government today," Butz told reporters in Indianapolis. But he added: "President Ford called me on a personal basis and asked me to stay for the remainder of the term."

He said he would quit the Agriculture Department after 1976 — no matter who is president. Butz, a former head of the Purdue University school of agriculture, was in Indianapolis to address the Young Republicans convention.

Disbarred

Former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, a key figure in the Watergate scandals which led to President Richard Nixon's resignation, was disbarred in New York State Thursday.

Five judges of the Second Department Appellate Division in Manhattan ruled unanimously that Mitchell had automatically ceased to be "an attorney and counsellor at law of the State of New York" at the moment of his conviction in the Watergate cover-up trial.

The judges noted in their brief decision that Mitchell had been found guilty in Washington of several violations of federal law, including perjury, "which (Mitchell) concedes constitutes a felony under our penal law."

Emigres

Two of the most renowned Soviet emigres, Alexander Solzhenitsyn and Mstislav Rostropovich, paid a tribute to the United States Thursday by visiting the Lincoln Memorial.

Accompanied by their wives, they met first in Solzhenitsyn's hotel suite, and then drove to the Lincoln Memorial, where they viewed the statue of the 16th president and chatted with tourists through an interpreter.

Many of the tourists recognized Solzhenitsyn, who evaded a direct answer to a question about reports from an administration source that President Ford had considered meeting with Solzhenitsyn but that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger vetoed the idea.

Rostropovich, generally regarded as the world's greatest living cellist, told a reporter that he had seen Solzhenitsyn twice in Zurich since the exiled novelist settled there after being deported from the Soviet Union.

Hungate

Rep. William Hungate, D-Mo., who gained national prominence last year as the author of the second article of impeachment against President Richard Nixon, will retire from Congress at the end of this term, his Washington office reported Thursday.

Hungate said he could no longer seek office, with less than total personal commitment now that "politics has gone from the age of Camelot" when all things were possible, to the age of Watergate, when all things are suspect.

Hungate, 52, is serving his seventh term in the House and is chairman of the criminal justice subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee. He became nationally known during the televised hearings of the Judiciary Committee on Nixon's impeachment.

Water matter

Can Action Line find out when the water at Alamitos Bay was last checked for harmful pollutants? At times, I have noticed that the water smells like a cesspool. P.T., Long Beach.

A LITTLE LEARY

A REUNION IS WHEN YA GET TOGETHER TO SEE WHO'S FALLIN' APART

What can be done about the mossy-looking growth of algae that is taking over the Alamitos Bay waters? It's close to the shore and a hazard for children who get entangled in it. I've contacted various city departments, but no one seems to know what has caused this problem or what will be done about it. M.P., Long Beach.

At Action Line's request, the state Water Resources Control Board checked the Alamitos Bay and found that the bacteria and pollutant count currently is well below the safe limit for swimming areas. Water samples from the bay are analyzed every month by the Long Beach Health Department and the reports are filed with the state board. The inspector who checked the bay said the increased algae growth does not present a health hazard. City officials are aware of the algae problem, which they term the worst they've seen in recent years, but they said there is little that can be done about it. Lifeguards and city public service crews have been instructed to clear away the algae near the shore, but state environmental laws prohibit any major clean-up of the algae in the water because this could upset the ecological balance there. The algae serves as food for certain marine species. Capt. William Ward of the city's marine safety division said experts believe the growth may break up and disappear as more and more people start swimming in the bay and stirring up the water.

Model rocketry

My son has a model rocket and he'd like to join a local club so that he can launch it. Can Action Line help? B.S., Wilmington.

There are no approved launching sites in the Long Beach-Wilmington area, but your son can participate in the model rocketry programs operated at Mile Square Park, Warner Avenue and Euclid Street in Fountain Valley, and at the Anaheim Stadium. The latter program is sponsored by the Anaheim Recreation Department and it's open to residents of any city. Call James Lovell at (714) 533-5271 for more information. For details on the launch dates at Mile Square Park, contact Lee's Hobby Shop, 10526 Garden Grove Blvd., Garden Grove, (714) 534-0420.

Registration

I purchased a 1974 Pontiac from Service GMC Inc. in Long Beach in January, but I still haven't received the pink slip or license plates, and now the dealer has gone out of business. I contacted the California Department of Motor Vehicles and was told my case was being investigated, but I still haven't been able to register the car. Can Action Line find out what's going on? S.C., Lomita.

A DMV investigator has been meeting with one of the former owners of Service GMC Inc. to obtain the sales records on your car and the others sold by this dealer. The DMV will continue working on your case until your car is fully registered in your name. If a dealer who has gone out of business refuses to cooperate with the DMV in such cases, legal action will be taken to require the firm to produce its records. You have been given a temporary registration certificate and the DMV will continue to issue you this type of permit until your permanent documents are prepared. If you have any further questions, contact Robert DeNully, the DMV investigator assigned to your case, at 639-6301.

Old Brand

Can Action Line tell us whatever became of Chase & Sanborn coffee? We particularly liked their decaffeinated product, Siesta, but can't find it anywhere locally. We know it's still available because we had it in a restaurant while traveling. M.H., Lakewood.

Standard Brands Inc., which bought out the Chase & Sanborn Co., stopped distributing the decaffeinated coffee to retail markets about five years ago, said a company spokesman. Siesta is still available in some restaurants and hotels throughout the country. You can buy the regular Chase & Sanborn coffee in some grocery stores, such as McCoy's Markets locally, but it, too, is primarily found in restaurants.

Plea of guilty in L.A. check theft

Bernard Howard, indicted in a plot to swindle the Los Angeles treasury out of $3.5 million in stolen municipal checks, pleaded guilty Thursday in Superior Court.

Judge Leslie W. Light accepted the surprise plea and scheduled Howard's sentencing for July 31.

Howard, 52, an accountant from Yonkers, N.Y., pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit forgery and grand theft, one count of forgery and one count of attempted grand theft.

The forgery and grand theft counts originated from an alleged conspiracy to cash a city treasury check in the amount of $356,729 with the Mercantile Trading Corp. in Chicago.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Stephen Troit said, "We feel that the interests of justice have been served by this plea. Mr. Howard has admitted his guilt to all aspects of this scheme and now faces a maximum of 33 years in prison."

Howard was arrested Dec. 7 as he left the Beverly Wilshire Hotel in Beverly Hills with Morton Freeman, 47, a sales representative from Patos Verdes.

Authorities said the two men had what they thought was $1.2 million, but was actually cut-up newspapers.

Raid on cruising nets 110

VAN NUYS (AP)—Police have arrested 110 youngsters in the first major crackdown against nighttime cruising and auto club meetings that long have brought yelps of anger from Van Nuys' businessmen and residents.

Some 100 officers took part in the sweep Wednesday night that ended with 82 juveniles and 28 others arrested and booked variously for investigation of drunkenness, battery on a police officer, marijuana possession and curfew violations.

Cruising, mainly along Van Nuys Boulevard in the San Fernando Valley, has gone on for years and Wednesday night is the traditional time for club meetings.

When officers moved in and began making arrests Wednesday night, they said some of the youths tossed bottles and stones. The only injury reported was to an officer who was cut on his hand. That incident led to one youth's arrest on the battery charge.

Suspect in slaying arraigned

Terry Eugene Corde, the suspect in a four-year-old murder case who was extradited from Washington, Thursday was arraigned on the homicide charge in Long Beach Superior Court.

Corde, 24, entered a plea of innocent to the charge before Judge Elsworth M. Beam.

The one-time Long Beach man was arrested in April after detectives, acting on a tip to the Independent Press-Telegram's Secret Witness Program, found Corde serving a prison term in Walla Walla, Wash.

Corde was returned last month to stand trial in Long Beach for the gun-shot slaying of Elliot Lawson, 38, in a July 16, 1971 holdup at the Atlantic Inn, 1854 Atlantic Ave.

At Thursday's arraignment, the judge granted a motion by Corde's attorneys for the appointment of a psychiatrist to examine the defendant, to determine whether or not he was sane at the time he allegedly committed the murder.

That psychiatrist's report will be given in confidence to the defense.

Judge Beam ordered Corde returned to court Sept. 8 for the tentative start of his trial.

The Secret Witness who provided the information leading to Corde's arrest turned down the reward of $2,000 which had been offered in the case.

Suspect in 'human fly' case seized

United Press International

Police on the lookout for a "human fly" thief in an expensive apartment house district in the western section of Los Angeles sighted a man climbing up a structure from balcony to balcony before dawn Thursday.

The man scaled the back of the 10-story apartment house in 20 minutes, officers said, and he disappeared from view for quite a long time. When he came down by the same route, a dozen officers were waiting for him but he nimbly eluded them, leaping from an 18-foot high fence to the ground.

A foot pursuit followed, and the officers eventually brought down their quarry with bullets.

Harold Holman, 29, was taken to UCLA Medical Center with wounds in the torso and leg. He was in serious condition.

First homesick refugees take off for Guam

CAMP PENDLETON (AP)—The first group of Vietnamese refugees who want to go back to their country left here Thursday for Guam, where they are to be housed until further arrangements for repatriation are completed.

State Department officials said 50 refugees were bused to nearby El Toro Marine Air Station for the flight to Guam. Another 200 were to be flown out today.

Some 2,000 refugees, about 1,200 of them still on Guam, have asked to be sent back to the country they fled when the Communists took over. Almost all of them are said to be so desirous of wanting to rejoin relatives they left behind that they are willing to risk whatever treatment the Communists give them.

Officials here said they had no word on precisely how or when the repatriates would be taken from Guam to Vietnam. Those arrangements are being handled by the United Nations High Committee on Refugees.

More than 400 repatriates have been housed here for about two weeks and include refugees from all four relocation centers in the United States.

Tight security surrounded the departure of the first 50 refugees, but the reason for this was unclear. Officials had hinted that the departure was close at hand but did not give newsmen any details until after the refugees left the camp by bus.

Later, a Marine spokesman who watched the departure said the returning refugees were "keyed up and appeared apprehensive" as their desires to risk the journey home began to be realized.

Lt. Col. Arthur P. Brill said the 43 men, three women and four children were searched at the air base, then walked two abreast into the C141 transport plane. Several security agents were on board for the flight, said Brill, partially to protect the flight crew from hijacking attempts.

One reason the departure was not announced in advance, Brill said, was concern about animosity from other refugees. On June 22, more than 400 refugees at Ft. Chaffee, Ark., demonstrated against those wanting to return.

They carried signs reading, "Only Viet Cong Wish Living Under Communists," and said they feared the returnees would lead the American people to believe the refugees are ungrateful.

Nick Thorne, the civil coordinator of this refugee camp, said he expected news of the airlift to bring additional requests for repatriation.

Suit filed in Viet jet crash

United Press International—Army Sgt. Garnett Bell, 32, filed a $9.5 million suit Thursday in Los Angeles for the death of his wife and adopted son in the April crash of a Viet namese orphan mercy flight at Saigon.

Lockheed Aircraft Corp., maker of the C5A Galaxy jet, was named defendant in the wrongful death suit.

Birthday plan vague as Bicentennial opens

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States opens a Bicentennial year today with President Ford speaking at the birthplace of the national anthem, but plans for the nation's 200th birthday next year remain vague.

Although there are at least a half-dozen official starting dates for the nation's Bicentennial, most official activity runs through the year between now and July 4, 1776, the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Ford is the key speaker at the annual Our Country Program at Ft. McHenry in Baltimore, site of the battle during which Francis Scott Key wrote the Star Spangled Banner in 1814.

In the nation's capital, the biggest Bicentennial event is the annual July 4th fireworks display on the Washington Monument grounds. The Festival of American Folklife, an annual affair, is running on Washington's Mall through Sunday.

Elsewhere in the nation:

—Bob Hope will receive the Philadelphia Freedom Medal in the city where independence was declared 199 years ago. Merchants and restaurant owners will throw a giant block party.

—Church bells will toll in Boston where a band concert and other ceremonies will be held at City Hall Plaza, and a parade will go to the Old State House.

—In New York City, virtually every park, plaza and street in lower Manhattan will have a party or pageant.

—The Freedom Train, a red-white-and-blue traveling collection of historic documents and memorabilia, will be in Detroit.

—The Peoples Bicentennial Commission, a counterculture group which has been critical of the official program, will lay a wreath at the Jefferson Memorial in Washington and native "five corporate commercializers of the Bicentennial as Tories of the Year."

Elsewhere, activities will follow the pattern which has evolved for the Bicentennial in the absence of national direction —locally conceived and developed programs with little national context.

Plans for the big commemoration July 4, 1976, are still unsettled, although it is understood there will be a week of festivities and ceremonies with major programs probably in both Philadelphia and Washington on Independence Day.

Tentative plans still include token session of Congress in Philadelphia next year and a presidential appearance, possibly in both cities on the same day.

The American Revolution Bicentennial Advisory Council has recommended a four-day legal holiday from Friday July 2 through Monday, July 5.

The council also has suggested a simultaneous bell ringing across the country and various ceremonies.

Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh are scheduled to visit the United States from July 7 to July 11 next year.

Freedom Train will continue to roll through the end of next year and will be in Philadelphia for Independence Day 1976. A wagon train and Bike-centennial bicycle trails will cross the nation.

Backers of Pacific 21 are trying to put together an exposition in Los Angeles featuring America's Pacific basin neighbors. Originally planned to open this summer, it has now been delayed until next year.

The big summer sale starts tomorrow, Saturday, July 5th!

VW no longer No. 1 import

DETROIT (AP) — For the first time in 16 years, Volkswagen is no longer the leading exporter of cars to the United States.

June sales figures released Thursday showed West Germany's VW fell to the No. 3 spot, trailing two Japanese automakers. Toyota took over first place, and Datsun moved up to the No. 2 spot.

However, VW sales for the first six months of the year still lead 20 other imports sold in the U.S. VW sales for an entire year have led other imports since 1955.

Toyota's monthly sales of 28,435 set a June record and were up 45 per cent from June 1974 and 27 per cent from May. Datsun had June sales of 23,867, up 75 per cent from last year and 22 per cent from May. VW sales of 23,268 were off 2 per cent from last year and 4 per cent from May.

Volkswagen's sales for the first half of 1975 were 167,023, trailing last year's pace by 3 per cent. Toyota was in second place with sales of 137,521, up 9 per cent from 1974, and Datsun followed with sales of 122,340, a gain of 36 per cent over last year.

The last time VW fell from the No. 1 spot for a monthly sales period was in September 1959, when Renault eclipsed the famous Beetle, 9,439 to 8,654. However, VW finished No. 1 for that year.

VW officials blamed the current sales decline on a severe shortage of new models, not a decline in consumer demand.

7% hike in car sales reported

DETROIT (UPI) — The four U.S. automakers reported Thursday new car sales in June jumped 7 per cent over May, countering the normal drop as the industry turned in its best performance in 11 months.

General Motors and Chrysler reported their strongest sales since last August. But industry deliveries of 618,763 cars still were 11.3 per cent below a year ago and left the four companies with their worst first half in 14 years.

The current slump began 21 months ago with the start of the Arab oil embargo and at one point idled up to 40 per cent of the blue collar labor force.

Imports continued strong, finishing with an estimated 150,000 sales, 34 per cent ahead of last June, to grab a record one of every five new car sales in the first six months of the year.

Chrysler chief plans to retire

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lynn Townsend, who has come under fire because of the automaker's financial troubles, announced Thursday he plans to retire from his post on Oct. 1.

The 56-year-old Townsend has been chairman of the nation's third largest auto company since January 1967. The firm lost a record $52 million in 1974 — the most of any manufacturer in the United States.

Townsend also announced a major realignment in the company's top management circles, including expanded financial responsibilities for President John J. Riccardo.

Industry observers said the reorganization established Riccardo, 51, as Townsend's successor and Executive Vice President Eugene A. Caliero as the new president.

Townsend also said he would convene a special meeting of the company's directors as soon as possible to submit his resignation and recommend a successor.

"Since 1961 I have taken a principal role in directing the affairs of this great corporation, first as president and then as chairman and chief executive officer," said Townsend. "Fourteen years is a long time for a senior executive to play a dominant part in the leadership of an organization of this size and especially in this industry."

Townsend was Chrysler's president from 1961 until 1967 when he became chairman.

Shopping cart safety studied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission is considering whether supermarket grocery carts should be made tip-proof so children can't fall out of them and hurt themselves.

The question was raised by Dr. Edward Press, a public health officer for the state of Oregon, who petitioned the agency to require safety rules. He claimed the commission's own injury statistics show 8,000 to 9,000 emergency-room cases every year involving shopping cart injuries.

FOR THE year ended June 30, 1974, it was estimated that 8 per cent of these were fractures, most of which were of the lower arms, fingers and lower leg although about 6 per cent of the fractures were fractures of the skull," he said.

"While 8,000 or 9,000 may not seem to be a large number in view of the millions that might be exposed, I am confident that there are also a significant number of additional injuries that are not severe enough to require hospital emergency treatment but that might be prevented by proper construction and proper operation of the carts," Press added.

The figures he cited, however, are lumped together in a category that also includes injuries from luggage carriers, so the exact number of problems traceable to the grocery carts is really not known.

JOBS

month's figures to get a better picture of the situation," Lorenz said.

Lorenz explained the "quirk" producing the state decline was a result of the method used to determine the seasonally adjusted rate. He described the problem as "an exaggerated seasonal correction to the unemployment rate" and explained it this way:

"This seasonal adjustment is based on a proportion of the total jobless which is much higher than normal during the current recession. Therefore, even though the number of summer job seekers is about the same as usual, the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate shows a sharp decline."

"This decline is not reflective of any major change in employment and does not show a trend," he added.

The number of people in jobs in June was 8,595,000 — a gain of 85,100 over May, but almost 100,000 less than were working a year ago.

ALTHOUGH the nation's unemployment rate dropped 0.6 per cent to 8.6 per cent in June, one official said abnormal factors were involved and "no one should celebrate."

Administration spokesmen agreed that the decrease from 9.2 per cent in May did not mean the 14-month-long deterioration in the employment picture had ended, although they saw better conditions ahead.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the report for June indicated "unemployment has stopped rising and is essentially static."

"The difference in figures is caused by a statistical abnormality which distorted both the May and June figures," Nessen said. "May was too high and June was too low."

"NO ONE should celebrate unemployment figures until July or August," Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, told a congressional economic subcommittee. He did find "some improvement here and there" in the statistics, however, and said we can expect improvement soon.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said: "It would be the height of folly for anyone to take satisfaction from these figures."

Meany said unemployment is unchanged and the number of jobless out of work for 15 weeks increased 250,000 in June to 2.9 million.

The bureau, which compiles the monthly data, said employment held steady at 84.4 million workers in June.

Consumer debt rises for May

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board reported Thursday that consumer debt rose for the first time in three months in May, largely because of heavier use of charge accounts by shoppers.

The central bank said the volume of debt outstanding rose $72 million after adjustment for seasonal factors. The rise followed declines of $100 million in April and $462 million in March.

The increase left total consumer indebtedness at $185 billion, up by $3.3 billion over the same month a year ago.

Consumers' willingness to go more heavily into debt is a key indicator of their confidence in the economy's future as well as their willingness to spend.

Consumer credit had shrunk in the past few months as people responded to the recession's bite by cutting back their borrowing and spending. Economists have pegged hopes for a significant recovery to a revival of consumer confidence and spending.

Warning proposed for diabetes pills

By HAROLD SCHMECK Jr.

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration is proposing a strongly worded label for pills used by more than a million diabetics, warning that patients may be more likely to die of heart disease if they become regular users of the drugs.

The pills are believed to represent a $100 million market for the pharmaceutical industry. An estimated 1 1/2 million adult diabetics use the drugs, which have been the subject of intense controversy for more than five years.

The controversy started with a large-scale study that showed that patients who used the pills had a death rate from heart disease twice as high as that of comparable patients who relied on diet alone.

The study involved 1,027 patients and lasted more than eight years at about a dozen hospitals affiliated with major medical schools. It was called the University Group Diabetes Program, or UGDP.

Over the years, the study's conclusions have will be published Monday in the Federal Register, the FDA asserts that a strong warning label is needed and that this should not be diluted by differing opinions.

The drugs are often called oral hypoglycemic drugs because they are taken by mouth for the purpose of lowering the patient's blood sugar level.

In boldface type set off by a box on the label, the proposed warning would say, "Oral hypoglycemic drugs may be associated with increased cardiovascular mortality as compared to treatment with diet alone or diet plus insulin."

Cardiovascular mortality means death from disorders of the heart and circulatory system. The warning would also give the key findings of the been supported by expert committees of the American Diabetes Association, American Medical Association, FDA and other organizations. But advocates of the drugs have attacked the study's conclusions on numerous grounds and have demanded that any warning label be balanced by a statement of their side of the long controversy.

Blaze 'contained' close to Big Bear

BIG BEAR (AP) — Fire officials said Thursday night that fire fighters had contained a blaze that blackened about 800 acres some 10 miles northwest of Big Bear Lake in the San Bernardino Mountains.

The blaze, dubbed the Coyote fire, erupted Wednesday afternoon and was first believed to have consumed nearly 1,500 acres, said a spokesman for the California Division of Forestry. But an aerial survey with infrared cameras showed the boundaries of the fire to be about half the original estimate.

Fire officials began releasing crews Thursday evening, sending six hand crews of about 120 men, five aerial tankers and eight tank trucks back to their bases.

The spokesman said the possibility of arson was being investigated but no cause of the fire had been pinpointed. There were no injuries and no structures were threatened, he added.

UGDP study and would state that "despite controversy regarding the interpretation of these results, the findings of the UGDP study provide adequate basis for this warning."

The warning would indicate that the drugs should be used only for adult patients not totally dependent on insulin, whose blood sugar level cannot be controlled by diet alone, and who will not, or cannot, take insulin.

It would also say that the patient should be informed of the advantages and potential risks of the various modes of treatment available and should be a participant in the decision to use the oral drugs when that decision is made.

Inflation, Ford policies cited Education quality 'falling'

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press

An inflationary struggle coupled with the Ford administration's economic policies is forcing serious reductions in the quality of education American young people are receiving, a National Education Association (NEA) official said Thursday.

"Continued underinvestment in education and sharp decreases in educational funding in the name of inflation or recession will produce just as serious national ills in the short range and more serious in the long range," said Jean Flanigan, research director for the 1.7-million-member teacher organization.

SHE called the Ford administration's efforts to put a ceiling on federal education spending unconscionable and said priorities need to be reordered to place more emphasis on educating the young so they can get jobs and stay off the welfare and prison rolls.

Ms. Flanigan's comments — and a research report from her department on the financial status of the nation's public schools — came as more than 10,000 persons gathered for the opening of the NEA's annual convention.

Ms. Flanigan said that, in a nationwide NEA survey of 2,200 teachers last year, 39.2 per cent reported increased class sizes, 42 per cent indicated a decrease in teaching materials, 28 per cent said some school programs had been eliminated and 25.9 per cent noted a reduction in special-subject teachers.

In addition, Ms. Flanigan said, "Because of underinvestment in education only one-third of the recent graduates trained for teaching have jobs in teaching at the elementary and secondary level, and only one-fourth of the new doctorates have positions in higher education."

The NEA report is sharply critical of the Ford administration, calling its program to revive the economy "late, too little and misdirected. The expansion goes toward tax rebates which do little to relieve the burden on low-income taxpayers and toward increased spending which is directed to military spending rather than to social welfare programs, including education."

The NEA noted that President Ford's outgoing secretary of health, education and welfare, Caspar Weinberger, said last week he will recommend that Ford veto a bill before a congressional conference committee that authorizes a $7.6-billion education appropriation next year, $1.5 billion more than Ford requested.

"The actual increase in appropriations in 1975 was more than wiped out by inflation," Ms. Flanigan said, "and the administration's request for zero increase in the 1976 budget is unconscionable in the light of the increasing inflation, the revenue plight of state and local school systems and the needs of students."

State won't pay Reagan for moving

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State officials have rejected $3,502 in bills submitted by former Gov. Ronald Reagan for moving his furnishings out of the capital.

Lawrence Gercovich of the state controller's office said Thursday the state has no legal authority to pay for moving of a governor's personal possessions.

Three rejected claims involved moving furnishings from Reagan's state-rented Sacramento home to his Pacific Palisades home and his Santa Barbara ranch. Two of the claims were rejected in November, while Republican Houston Flournoy was controller.

Brown weighs low-cost MD insurance subsidy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A top aide to Gov. Brown Thursday said the administration is discussing a state subsidy plan for low-cost medical malpractice insurance.

The tentative proposal would call on doctors to perform periodic public-service jobs, such as providing free or low-cost treatment for welfare recipients, in return for the subsidy.

"I would never advocate requiring doctors to work for the state," said Donald Burns, Brown's chief spokesman on malpractice insurance. "However, if the state has something that doctors need, then I think it is only fair for the state to ask for something in return."

Brown has not formally approved the proposal or decided if he will present it to the Legislature.

When Brown called a special session on malpractice insurance in May he hinted at public-service jobs for doctors by proposing a "medical peace corps" to serve Californians who lack adequate medical care.

The governor also said the Board of Medical Examiners should be given authority to develop a system to minimize the present maldistribution of medical care in certain areas of the state.

Burns, secretary of the Business and Transportation Agency, said a state-controlled insurance company for doctors was an alternative plan to solve the malpractice crisis. It would need legislative approval.

Doctors would pay into a new state insurance fund and the premiums would be used to pay malpractice claims. It would be operated much like the Federal Social Security fund.

When doctors contracted for the insurance they would agree to perform limited public-service work — possibly one month every two years. In return, they would be guaranteed malpractice insurance at a reasonable rate.

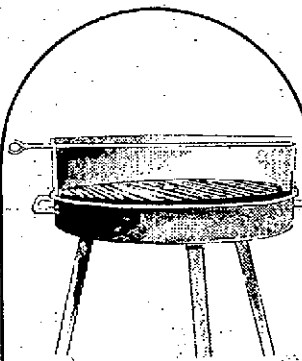

Burns said some doctors would agree to treat Medi-Cal patients at no cost or at a lower payment than they now receive. The Medi-Cal program provides state treatment of welfare recipients and other low-income persons.

TOMORROW: Hodge Podge "E"

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for SATURDAY

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be patient through the morning since confusing items will soon be clarified. The path is clear and open to all by afternoon. Share hobbies and sports; tell humorous stories.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your ability to attract support increases once you're past the uncertain mood of the morning. Make a determined effort to communicate if there's been an interruption or misunderstanding.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Family and regular associates demand attention. Private consultations and negotiations concerning group enterprises are favored later today. Romance thrives.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are at your lowest ebb of sales and persuasive powers so save your efforts for next week. Enjoy the holiday weekend as well as a restless mood will let you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Lend a helping hand, but don't expect anything in return. Tidy up your home and clear out surplus possessions. Sell them or give them to your pet charity.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Make sure you're headed in the right direction, then work on being the life of the party. Take time out to balance resources and planned goals, and clear up any discrepancies.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): After a confused start, the day gradually improves. The less you let them get to you, the easier life is. Pursue romantic interests discreetly tonight.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Even short trips involve delays, detours and chance meetings that don't accomplish much. Be patient to avoid bickering. You spend money too casually with nothing to show for it.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): A word in advance saves much confusion. Get full agreement before you follow that adventurous impulse. Make reconciliations and review vocational progress in later hours.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): During the holiday, everyone is sensitive to comments. If you can keep a secret during small talk, you'll get your way in romantic enterprises.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): You begin the day on lousy terms and take too much personally. With tact and mutual acceptance, everything can get straightened out in time to enjoy the weekend.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): The later you start, the better; morning moves encounter un planned resistance. You're not the real target for harsh words; so ignore them. Get a few things done well.

Dymally accuses Times of vendetta

By DOUG WILLIS

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Mervyn Dymally accused the Los Angeles Times of "vendetta journalism" Thursday and denied Times allegations that he "misused funds from a nonprofit institute."

"I'm not afraid of the Los Angeles Times. After a three-month investigation, the Times has poured forth columns of inaccuracies, innuendos and outright falsehoods," Dymally told a Capitol news conference.

Meanwhile, Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren Abbott confirmed that the state attorney general's office has been "investigating for more than a year what Abbott called 'relatively minor accounting questions' concerning the Urban Affairs Institute, which was founded by Dymally."

And a Republican legislator, Sen. Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, demanded an investigation of the Times allegation by the Joint Legislative Ethics Committee. Carpenter called the Times charges "shocking and reprehensible, if true."

plane tickets was "a clerical error."

Dymally and Greene are both Democrats with their political base in the black Watts area of Los Angeles.

Dymally said the Times story was part of an eight-year campaign by the newspaper to discredit him.

"I DID not profit from my involvement in Urban Affairs. I did draw a salary for the first few months. That is not illegal. That is not immoral. It was not a misuse of money," as stated by the Times," Dymally said.

He accused the Times of "the most disgraceful types of reporting" and said the Times does not "like my style in the ghetto."

"I am proud of the fact that I am one of those who broke the back of the Times Republican machine. The Times views me as an aggressive, effective, liberal-black Democratic politician, everything they are against," he said.

Asked to list the falsehoods and inaccuracies in the Times story, Dymally said he would provide a detailed response later.

Questioned about Times allegations that institute money was used for meals at expensive Los Angeles restaurants, Dymally replied those were seminar-type meals where business was conducted.

"I don't know anything about it, but why shouldn't black interns have lunch at Perino's? That was a perfectly proper expenditure," Dymally said.

Abbott refused to discuss details of the attorney general's investigation of the institute. But he said in a telephone interview that the Times' allegations would be checked along with other matters previously under investigation.

After the Ford grant expired, the institute was merged into Windsor University, a private institution in south Los Angeles that is under investigation for alleged false advertising.

"We had started on this when the Urban Affairs Institute transferred all assets to Windsor University; it raised questions, not serious questions, but caused us to look into it," Abbott said.

The attorney general's office has authority to investigate receipts and expenditures of tax-free charitable trusts.

Dymally said he repaid the $7,009 salary he received from the institute. He disputed a Times allegation that he repaid the salary from other Ford Foundation funds.

"It was all my money" used to repay the salary, Dymally said.

L.B. restaurant sues club, critic

A Long Beach restaurant has filed suit in Superior Court claiming it was libeled by a food critic's column in the Auto Club of Southern California's "Westways" magazine.

The lawsuit was filed in Long Beach by Mihanian Enterprises Inc. as owners of Restaurant Alfred, 700 E. 45th St.

The suit asks $50,000 in punitive damages on grounds the column caused prospective customers "to question the desirability of dining" at the restaurant.

Targets of the suit are the Auto Club of Southern California as publishers of Westways magazine and Paul Wallach, whose regular column appears under the headline, "Restaurants/Etc."

The restaurant's owners allege it was malice that made Wallach write the things he did about Alfred's in his July, 1974 column, and the column is reproduced entirely in the lawsuit.

A Westways editor, on the other hand, said Thursday that "Mr. Wallach stakes his reputation on his frankness." Westways, the suit claims, has refused to retract criticisms in the column.

The column begins with an anecdote:

"A Parisian restaurateur friend of mine, after a particularly disappointing dinner on the Left Bank, muttered, 'Heaven sends them the food; the devil sends them the cooks.' That's a sentiment I've remembered on the all-too-many occasions when I've found myself confronted with a plateful of such unsavories as tepid, tired vegetables, empty sauces and massaged meat."

With unpalatable illustrations, Wallach's column went on to allege that three of those occasions involved Restaurant Alfred.

Wallach also noted in the column that Alfred's

"may provide a convenience if not a thrill" since "the Long Beach area is, for some unfathomable reason, lacking in good restaurants..." Such statements, Alfred's alleges, constitute interference with the good relationship it has had for years with its customers. On those grounds, the restaurant's owners also ask for compensatory damages of at least $10,000.

San Pedro man guilty of attack

A 46-year-old San Pedro man Thursday was convicted of kidnapping and rape in connection with an assault which left a 57-year-old woman with fractures of a hip and leg.

The verdict in the case of James Lee Trice was returned shortly before noon by jurors who deliberated a day-and-a-half, reviewing much of the evidence a second time before voting.

On Monday, that panel heard the testimony of the victim who was wheeled to a hospital gurney into the Long Beach Superior Court of Judge Max Z. Wisot.

The woman still is recovering from the attack which occurred eight months ago, said Deputy Dist. Atty. Paul Marin.

Marin said the woman was assaulted outside a San Pedro bar, kidnapped and raped last Nov. 3.

She testified that she remembered only hazily the events of the ordeal because she fainted several times.

According to her testimony, she was leaving a tavern shortly after midnight when she was grabbed and held against a building, then to the pavement.

She told the court that the next thing she remembers was being lifted and placed in a car which drove off.

After that, she said she awakened from faints on two occasions to find she was being raped, apparently by two men.

Finally, she testified, she convinced the car's driver—one of the rapists—that she was injured and he took her to an all-night cafe in San Pedro where she was employed.

The woman testified she remembers trying to tell coworkers when she arrived that the man with her had raped her. She believed she fainted before she could say that. But according to other testimony, she succeeded.

Several persons in the cafe got a look at the man before he ducked out, witnesses said, and two months later two of them recognized him in a San Pedro bar and called police.

When police arrived, they arrested Trice, according to Marin.

Among witnesses called in the trial was the long-time physician of the victim, who testified his examination indicated she had been raped. Marin said.

As Americans celebrate Independence Day today, many will observe the holiday in the nation's capital and visit the Jefferson Memorial to pay tribute to the author of the Declaration of Independence. The third president of the United States (1801-1809), Thomas Jefferson composed the document that established the colonies' independence from Britain in 1776. He was a member of the Virginia House of Burgess at the time. The Memorial stands on the South shore of the Tidal Basin in Washington, D.C. The circular stone structure with Vermont marble on the exterior and Georgia marble inside combines the architectural elements of the dome of the Partheon in Rome and the rotunda designed by Jefferson for the University of Virginia. The central circular chamber, 86.3 feet in diameter, is dominated by a 19-foot tall full length bronze statue of Jefferson by American sculptor Rudolph Evans. The memorial was dedicated by President Franklin D. Roosevelt on April 13, 1943, the 200th anniversary of Jefferson's birth.

Myths fall in study

Ridder News Service

SAN JOSE — Scientists are finding that many of the accepted differences between men and women don't exist, says a San Jose State University professor.

Dr. Ellen Weaver, of the office of sponsored research and project services at the university, said here recently that research has shattered many of these myths.

The thought that women are fragile and weak has been challenged by recent studies on female athletes showing that given the same training a woman's strength, based on body weight, is comparable to a male's, she said.

In fact, women have better "staying" power than men, probably because women have a better system of mobilizing fat, said Dr. Weaver, a biologist, chemist, geneticist and world-recognized authority on photosynthesis.

Also, women athletes have shown the same mental outlook as men athletes.

Dr. Weaver said she had recently taken part in a study on scientists.

The results, she said, were much like the results on athletes.

"The scientist is the same beast, whether man or woman," Dr. Weaver stated. "A scientist is aloof, emotionally stable, dominant, serious, adventurous, sensitive, confident, resourceful and controlled."

IN ANOTHER study, there was found to be little difference in mathematical aptitude of young children, yet women holding Ph.D.'s in math are almost nonexistent, she said.

Dr. Weaver said girls in high school are pressured away from taking math courses designed to prepare them for college calculus.

Somewhere along the line they have been pressured into considering math an unfeminine subject; the young woman is continually bombarded with messages, direct and indirect, to be beautiful, feminine and to catch a man, she added.

The professor also assailed theories picturing women as intellectually inferior.

If one insists on comparing the brains of men and women, the evidence shows that their brains weigh the same, Dr. Weaver said.

Yet women are not where the decisions that shape our society are made, she declared. In fact, women are not at the top in fields which are traditionally considered feminine.

Dr. Weaver said this was not the fault of men, alone, citing a study of perceptions of excellence that indicated both men and women consider women to be inferior intellectually.

of whom were in the original wedding in Los Angeles.

Annabelle Whisler and Dorothy Moyle assisted with the party, recreating their long ago roles of bridesmaid and maid of honor.

Dorothy's husband, Bill, was one of the ushers, George and Lola Scott came up from Apple Valley so that George could sing "Because" as he did at the wedding. Bridesmaid Lillian Tsoutsouvas and husband, John, came from Santa Barbara.

Extra special surprise guest was Josie Lee's brother, Jim Burdick and wife, Hazel who flew from Chicago for the anniversary.

Hackers were in for another surprise when members of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints feted them with a reception. Ron and Mary Ellen Fennell were in charge.

TEAM CAPTAIN

In the Mid-Winter Holiday Regional held in Reno, the winners of the Women's Swiss Teams were Georgiana Gates and Lynne Rogers, San Francisco, Audrey Rennels, Pleasanton, Calif., and Mary Bright, Cambridge, Mass.

Most players have their favorite rules for picking up the trump queen. When a finesse is indicated, some play for the queen to lie over the jack. Others like to guess.

Still others use the guide "Eight over, nine never," which means they always finesse with five trumps out but never when the defense has only four. Quite often the play for the trump queen is not a matter of rules or guides but a plan designed to make the contract.

Study today's game hand to see what I mean.

South's three spade cue bid was a slam try after North's jump raise but North declined since she had used all her high card and distributional values in making the jump raise.

West led the spade queen and the hand looked very safe. Even though West's overall virtually marked the club ace, declarer thought she could easily make five by drawing trumps and discarding one club on the long diamond.

HOWEVER, it's always those routine hands that cause all the trouble and here's how one declarer lost her way. The spade king was won in dummy and the ace of trumps played.

Playing for the drop, another trump was led to the king and declarer had a trump loser. Diamonds were now in an attempt to shed a club, but East ruffed the third round. It was not difficult to find the club shift and the safe hand was down one.

The hand was safe all right, but not in the way it was played. The winning plan minimizes concern about the trump queen and focuses on the problem of taking 10 tricks. After cashing the trump ace, the winning declarer led a trump to her jack.

This held and resulted in an over-trick, but declarer really didn't care if the finesse worked or not.

Assume that West had won with a doubleton queen of trumps. What could she do? If West led clubs in desperation, declarer would win and make an over-trick. If West led anything else, declarer would discard a club on the long diamond, concede two clubs and claim 10 tricks.

To paraphrase a well-known concept, "The play of a hand as a whole is more important than the play of any one part."

NEW kind of furniture by Decorion is portable. Buyer takes it home in a box and puts it together to form stylish room settings at affordable price.

NEW CONCEPT:

Stylish furniture at low price

Affordable, do-it-yourself furniture with decorator styling is the latest addition to Aaron Schultz Fashion Square. The furniture will get its grand preview Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. in the new Lifestyle Shop at the store, 4321 Atlantic Ave.

The furniture is a take-home and assemble-yourself variety for living rooms or dens. It features 15 pieces ranging from sofas and loveseats to ottomans and tables — all at prices nearly half of normal furnishings — according to Stan Schultz. The new shop also will offer bean bags.

Decorion test marketed the Nu-Dimension furnishings last year and they produced a $14 million market, Schultz added. "The designs allow those on limited incomes, such as young marrieds or senior citizens, to have stylish furniture at low prices."

The key to the new furniture is its portability. Each piece is packaged in carry-home boxes the size of a suitcase. An entire room can be transported in the trunk of a car and put together in an afternoon.

THE COMPANY has won two major awards for this collection. It was named winner of the Innovator Award by the International Home Furnishings Representatives Association and was judged Best of the Show, Grand Award winner, of the Poly Awards in the Society of Plastic Industry Inc.'s fifth annual competition. Both citations were for versatility of items in the ensemble as well as design, utility and ease of assembly.

For do-it-yourself decorators who might want a more sophisticated seating and color option, there's a Nu-Generation grouping of eight pieces that features sling-look upholstered seating. This is available in stain-resistant tattersall Hercules fabric or luggage-look vinyl. The tubing here is done in chocolate brown.

So, for the first time home decorator working with limited funds, the new designs offer a versatile and stylish way to start furnishing a home. The easy-to-assemble furnishings also will benefit those who must move often.

And, they provide a great party idea too. Instead of a housewarming, you could invite friends to a furniture-assembling party.

DEAR ABBY

Burn letters not spouse

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you found out after your husband's illness and death, and 40 years of marriage that he had been unfaithful for the last 15 years? There were several women, but he saw one steadily.

It was hard enough to take his death, but then I discovered among his office effects letters and pictures and even an accounting of the money he has spent on them (apartment rent, furniture and personal items, which he couldn't afford).

I sat at home and made my own clothes and draperies to save money. Now I have to use the insurance money he left to pay notes covering money he had borrowed during that time.

He was supposedly a competent businessman, well-liked in the community, and he never missed church. His children (and grandchildren) idolized him.

On the nights when he'd come home late, he lied so convincingly that I never suspected a thing.

I'm trying to overcome my resentment, but it's hard. I loved him so. My nerves are shot. Maybe a psychiatrist would help. What would you do? — ACHING

DEAR ACHING: I would get professional help to resolve my feelings of resentment and betrayal. (P.S. This letter should serve as a warning to all who read this column: Should you not live until next Monday, if you have letters, pictures or other damaging evidence hidden away, destroy it NOW!)

DEAR ABBY: The man next door is a very nice person, but his wife is something else.

Lately, she has been coming over here to use my telephone because she doesn't want her husband to hear her talking. She calls up her boyfriend and talks love talk anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour while I watch her 3-year-old son. It is sickening the way she carries on behind her husband's back.

I don't feel right looking after her child while a married woman with a perfectly wonderful and trusting husband is scheming and plotting with another man on my telephone.

How can I tactfully tell her to please quit coming over here to use my phone for such immoral purposes? — HER NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Tell her in English. And don't mince any words.

DEAR ABBY: My best girl friend is getting married soon, and I am her maid-of-honor. I am trying to talk her out of a crazy plan she has that sound ridiculous to me, but maybe I am wrong.

She wants to lock the church doors five minutes before the start of the ceremony.

I have argued that this is rude, since many of the guests will be driving into a strange area from a distant place and looking for an unknown church. I also showed her an etiquette book that says the bride's mother should be seated at the time the ceremony is scheduled to start and those who arrive late must watch the ceremony from the back of the church. It does NOT say that they should be locked out five minutes before the ceremony starts.

Answer soon, since this bride-to-be thinks she is right. — BEST FRIEND

DEAR BEST: Keep trying to convince her that YOU are right, because you are.

Aim was 'getting rid of' Castro

RFK 'originated CIA plan'

By JEREMIAH O'LEARY
Washington Star

WASHINGTON — Retired Maj. Gen. Edward G. Lansdale has named Robert F. Kennedy as the administration official who ordered him in 1962 to launch a Central Intelligence Agency project to work out all feasible plans for "getting rid of" Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Lansdale, in an interview with The Washington Star, never used the word "assassination" and said it was not used by Kennedy, then the attorney general.

But he said there could be no doubt that "the project for disposing of Castro envisioned the whole spectrum of plans from overthrowing the Cuban leader to assassinating him."

Lansdale said he received his instruction from the brother of then President John F. Kennedy and in turn relayed orders directly to CIA official William K. Harvey, bypassing the agency's chain of command.

A former high-ranking CIA official, who insisted on anonymity, also said that Robert Kennedy precipitated the 1962 CIA project for planning the destruction of Castro and his regime.

This official said Robert Kennedy contacted Lansdale, then assigned to the Pentagon as special assistant to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, because

CIA probe said started before Ford gave order

By NICHOLAS HORROCK

WASHINGTON — The staff of the Rockefeller commission quickly began investigating the Central Intelligence Agency's involvement in plots to assassinate foreign leaders nearly a month before President Ford officially gave them the assignment, according to authoritative sources.

The staff of the commission received its first such evidence when it asked the agency to fill in gaps and deletions it found in a comprehensive internal report on CIA wrongdoing that had been turned over to the commission by the agency.

It turned out that the gaps and deletions dealt with the agency's involvement in the plans to kill Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba. This material was in the hands of the staff shortly before the end of January.

The staff began investigating the implications of these disclosures under its mandate to inquire into any violations of the law by the CIA. It had already done a substantial amount of work on assassination matters when Ford ordered the commission to make an official investigation in early March, these sources said.

THE commission staff inquiry into assassinations both before and after it was officially authorized to proceed was substantial, lasting about four months, according to two sources. One of the sources said that the still-secret summary on the assassination question was a "good survey on the question."

The original material on CIA involvement in assassinations, other than occasional and incomplete press reports over the last 10 years, came from the agency itself. In May, 1973, James R. Schlesinger, then director of the CIA, asked employees to report any wrongdoing. Before the end of the month the agency compiled what has come to be known as the Schlesinger report, which included material on some of the plots.

Last Jan. 19, William E. Colby, the current director, used the Schlesinger Report as the basis for briefing Ford. It was at this time, the President has said that he learned that the CIA had been involved in plots to kill the leaders of other governments.

The President, however, did not order the Rockefeller commission to investigate the matter until early March after CBS and other news agencies began to report about CIA involvement.

When the Rockefeller commission made its report on June 6, however, the section on assassinations was not included. Among several reasons given was that the commission's work had been hurried and incomplete.

"Based upon their resources for information and time they had," one source outside the commission said, "they did a very adequate survey. What the Church Committee (Senate Select Committee on Intelligence headed by Sen. Frank Church) will turn out will be far richer in detail, but the basic element (government) involvement will not change."

On another matter, several sources said that the Kennedys had lost faith in the CIA leadership after the 1962 Bay of Pigs attempt to invade Cuba.

Both Lansdale and the ex-CIA source said the request was relayed without the knowledge of either CIA Director John A. McCone or McNamara. But Lansdale said both became aware of the planning later, along with members of the so-called "40 committee" at the White House.

Lansdale will be questioned next week by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence behind closed doors on his role in the 1962 anti-Castro operation which was known as Operation Mongoose.

Harvey has already appeared before the committee headed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

The Church committee already has received testimony from Mafia figure John Rosselli that he dealt with CIA representatives, including Harvey, in five attempts to kill Castro from 1960 through 1963. Church has indicated that the CIA ended any involvement in plans for killing Castro soon after President Kennedy was assassinated in November, 1963.

Lansdale said he was contacted by Robert Kennedy in midsummer of 1962 when there was concern about an increasing Soviet military presence in Cuba and strong suspicion that there might soon be a Soviet intercontinental ballistic missile force on the island.

Relations with Cuba seen soon

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Rep. Charles Whalen, R-Ohio, who just returned from Cuba, said Thursday he expects the United States will "reasonably soon" establish diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Whalen discussed his talks with Cuban President Fidel Castro aboard Air Force One while flying here with President Ford. He said he hoped to urge Ford to start the process of diplomatic relations and added, "I have a feeling we are going to do it."

Whalen is a member of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on International Commerce and Trade. His panel will begin hearings soon on Cuba relations.

Whalen said the United States should resume diplomatic relations "for our own self-interests. We're completely out of step," he added. "We're being portrayed as bad guys in the hemisphere."

He said in a four-hour conversation with Castro, including a ride down the main boulevard of Havana, alleged CIA assassination plots were never mentioned.

Of Castro, Whalen said: "I think he's an appealing guy. I had expected him to be flamboyant. But he is relaxed and restrained."

He quoted Castro as saying, "We have to have peace."

Whalen said that when the Organization of American States meets in Costa Rica later this month, two possible approaches will be made leading to a listing of the sanctions against Cuba.

One approach would be to change the OAS charter and lift the sanctions. The other would be to allow each nation to go its own way in terms of Cuba relations.

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles, negotiations continued between officials of Howard Hughes' Summa Corporation and the Los Angeles County tax assessor over the ownership and tax liability of the Glomar Explorer, which according to authoritative press accounts, was a ship financed by the CIA to recover a sunken Soviet submarine from the Pacific Ocean.

Philip E. Watson, the tax assessor, has said that if the ship is privately owned and not the property of the agency he is liable for $7.5 million in personal property taxes.

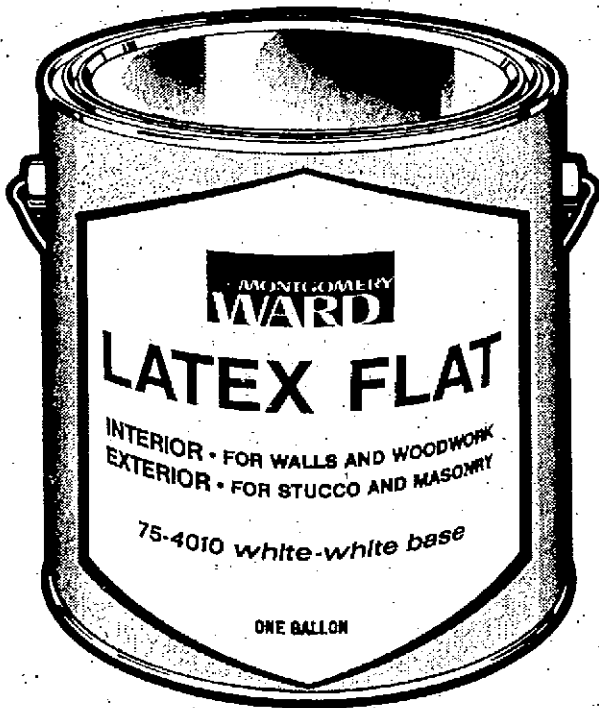

LAWYERS for Summa and the Global Marine Company, which operates the vessel, said earlier this year in private meetings with Watson that it was property of the CIA and thus not taxable.

Wednesday and Thursday, Watson and other Los Angeles officials held meetings with John S. Warner, an agency official, to establish whether the agency wants to document that it owns the vessel or whether it is in fact the property of Summa. There was no public announcement of any decision.

Drug fight called 'tragic failure'

By GIL BAILEY
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Ching a doubling of the number of heroin users in the United States in the past six years, Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., called the nation's multimillion-dollar fight against drugs "a tragic failure."

Edwards, chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights, which has been studying drug problems for several years, cited a General Accounting Office report he had requested and called the heroin epidemic "runaway."

"Despite state and federal programs in prevention and cure costing many hundreds of millions of dollars, the present trend, if continued — and it shows no indication of abating — will result in 1.5 million addicts by 1980, three million by 1985," Edwards said.

He called for consideration of U.S. use of the British system in which the government, not the underworld, provides drugs for addicts.

"The Nixon-Ford drug effort has been a tragic failure, and a complete reappraisal of the mounting crisis is necessary," he added.

At the same time, Edwards pointed out that Turkey has resumed the growing of opium, while the Golden Triangle in Southeast Asia is increasing its cultivation of opium poppies and remote areas of Mexico "have discovered the riches that the American underground will pay for opium derivatives."

The GAO report estimated that the number of heroin users has increased from 315,000 in 1969 to 724,900 in 1974, Edwards said.

"At the same time the foreign growers are increasing their plantings of the opium poppy, heroin and cocaine arrests by local and state authorities are declining," Edwards said.

"Local and state drug agents made 114,573 heroin and cocaine arrests in 1971," Edwards said quoting FBI and Drug Enforcement Agency reports. "But in 1973 local and state agents made only 67,791 arrests."

He noted federal arrests were up by only 4,000 in 1974. Nationally, in 1974, overdose deaths increased by 35 per cent over 1973, he said.

The Edwards subcommittee began study of the problems of addiction in the early 1970s.

"It seems clear to me that we must take a new look at the entire problem of narcotic addiction. The evidence so far is that we are getting nowhere," Edwards said. "Our efforts to date have apparently created a criminal underground that grows rich and powerful smuggling heroin, encouraging its use to young Americans, and retelling it to them at exorbitant prices," he added.

Edwards explained that he wants to know whether any state can show progress in heroin-use prevention and in rehabilitation programs. In addition, he wants to know whether the Drug Enforcement Agency has any hope of stemming the flood of heroin coming into the country.

Fugitive believed SLA founder held

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The FBI announced Thursday night the arrest of Thero Wheeler, believed to be one of the founders of the Symbionese Liberation Army that kidnapped heiress Patricia Hearst, in Houston, Tex.

The FBI said Wheeler, 30, an escaped convict, was arrested after he had gone to a hospital with superficial shotgun wounds and given one of his known aliases to attendants. An alert Houston policeman assigned to hospital duty ran the alias — Bradley S. Bruce — through the National Crime Information Center computer, the FBI said.

There was no immediate explanation of the shotgun wounds.

Wheeler and Donald DeFreeze, later killed in a shootout in Los Angeles, were identified as early members of the SLA.

Billboard's busty beauty covered up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Billboards advertising the movie "Supervixen" and featuring an actress in a low-cut dress were covered up 24 hours after they were put up.

The advertising agency in charge of the billboards said the billboard "was not in good taste."

"The illustration was a little much. You have to admit she's a little busty," said T. Carl Bogle, president of Lamar Dean, the advertising agency.

Bogle said he didn't realize the content of the billboard when he signed a contract with a Charlotte firm to display the advertisement. He said he was out of town when the signs were posted.

RARE OLD NEWSREELS

A collection of rare old Fox Movietone newsreels will provide a nostalgic view of the years 1927 through 1964 in this year's UCLA summer film series, a Bicentennial attraction, to be presented on six Thursday evenings at 8:30 in July and August in Royce Hall.

The series, which will cover politics, diplomacy, styles, sports and entertainment, will unfold through a dozen reels.

Labeled "The Way It Was: 1927-1964," the series opens July 17 with a program entitled "The End of an Era: 1927-1931." Subsequent showings include "FDR—The First Term: 1932-1936," and "The Storm Clouds Gather: 1937-1940." The August screenings, which begin Aug. 14, include "A World in Flames: 1941-1945," "The Atomic Age Begins: 1946-1952," Aug. 21, and "The Eisenhower-Kennedy Years," Aug. 28. # Male priests 'only' voted LONDON (AP) — The bishops and clergy of the Church of England voted Thursday to maintain an exclusively male priesthood, despite the rising clamor to ordain women.

The decision came at the end of a day-long debate at the summer session of the General Synod — the ruling body of the Church — assembled in Church House, Westminster.

THE SYNOD agreed there is no fundamental objection to having female priests but later in the day disagreed over removing the legal and other barriers to their ordination.

The movement for women's ordination could only have succeeded with a majority in favor in all three houses of the synod. The House of Laity was in favor but the houses of Bishops and Clergy were against. The three houses meet together in the synod but vote separately.

The issue has been long and often bitterly debated by Protestant Anglicans in their worldwide communion.

Last month Canadian Anglicans agreed to ordain women. Three other Anglican provinces, Burma, Indian Ocean and New Zealand, also have approved the principle. Hong Kong ordained two female priests in 1971.

But in the Protestant

Episcopal Church in the United States the ordination of 11 women was deemed irregular.

A motion by Canon Paul Welsby of Rochester, Kent, to retain the barriers to the ordination of women was approved by the bishops 19 to 14 and by the clergy 127 to 74. It was rejected by the laity 96 to 80.

The movement for female priests had support from both archbishops of the church, Canterbury and York, but they failed to sway a majority.

In effect, the synod acted as was expected: it said there is no reason why women should not become priests but it doesn't want them yet.

THE SIGNAL for Thursday's decision was given last month when a standing committee of the synod advised there is insufficient support within the church for such a decisive step.

A score of men and women who desire a female priesthood held a midnight-to-morning vigil outside Church House, but they admitted before the voting they did not expect to win.

Dr. Una Kroll, a deaconess and ardent campaigner for women's ordination, commented after the vote, "It is morally indefensible to approve something in principle and then fail to carry it out."

Terminal Island personnel to move Customs shift affirmed amid protest

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Despite letters of protest from legislators and demands for investigation, U.S. Customs officials in Washington said Wednesday they are proceeding with the plan to move personnel from the Terminal Island Customs Building to downtown Los Angeles.

A spokesman for U.S. Customs Commissioner Vernon Acree said the move, termed a "colocation of only management personnel," had been under discussion for several years and would proceed despite protests from two of the four field directors involved.

Meanwhile, in an attempt to forestall the employee transfers, Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, this week again sent three telegrams to legislators asking for "immediate help to prevent such a costly...and unnecessary move."

A prime mover in the establishment of the Terminal Island Customs House in 1967, Thomas earlier had asked for "immediate intercession" by the legislators—Congressman Glenn Anderson, and Sens. John Tunney and Alan Cranston—to halt the transfer of personnel. Thomas' latest move came on the heels of the Washington announcement that the shift in personnel would continue as planned.

Anderson earlier had contacted the Customs chief in Washington asking for a report on the proposed move and requesting that the proposal be canceled "unless it can be demonstrated that it is in the public interest and that budget savings will result."

"It would appear that in these times of budget restraints," Anderson said in referring to an estimated $500,000 cost for the move, "every effort should be made to curb federal spending, especially when there is no apparent advantage related to the expenditure."

Deputy Commissioner of Customs G. R. Dickerson, in answer to the congressman's letter, stressed that the move would "not mean an abandoning of the Customhouse by the Customs Service...nor will the recently renovated space at the Customhouse be given up by Customs."

It will be used, Dickerson said in his letter, "to house expanded District operations."

"This will eliminate a number of serious deficiencies presently caused by overcrowding," Dickerson told the legislator.

"I can assure you, however, that there is absolutely no possibility that the costs involved in colocation of our Office of Internal Affairs will even approach the $500,000 figure mentioned in your letter."

"Whatever the eventual cost...it should be emphasized that the cost will involve only a one-time expenditure. The costs in lost efficiency and productivity of having a fragmented operation would continue to be incurred year after year," Dickerson wrote.

Dickerson in his letter apparently was unaware of information supplied to his boss by the Los Angeles Regional Commissioner Albert G. Bergesen who less than two months ago supplied cost estimates, etc., for the move.

In his letter, dated May 19, 1975, Bergesen wrote Acree that the colocation "would, of course, be quite expensive...total cost for the entire move would be approximately $650,000."

In addition, Bergesen forwarded Acree a letter from the General Services Administration, dated May 2, 1975, in which he was told that commercial parking space might have to be leased in the area—something not usually a one-time expenditure as Dickerson said.

The acting chief also was unaware of letters and memos written earlier by the two top Customs officials involved in the move—both protesting the shift to Los Angeles.

Perry D. Martin, the regional director of security and audit, wrote he could "see no feasible reason

Council OKs $216.8 million budget in L.B.

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

The $216.8 million budget for the City of Long Beach for the 1975-76 fiscal year, except for contributions to various community organizations, was adopted Thursday on a 7-4 vote of the City Council.

Councilmen James H. Wilson and E. F. Cruchley were not present when the vote was taken after about three hours of discussion.

The budget includes $96.7 million for tax-supported funds, an increase of $8.6 million over last year, but City Manager John R. Mansell said it can be financed with a tax rate of $2.0958 per $100 of assessed valuation, a decrease of about one cent.

MANSELL HAS recommended an increase in the city's business license tax and its oil production license tax as well as a new real property transfer tax, which would be .55 per cent of the full market value of real property sales.

In response to a question from Councilwoman Renee B. Simon, however, he said that adoption of the budget does not automatically approve the recommended taxes. He said he will bring these in separately.

Mansell indicated, however, that the city administration has abandoned its proposal to switch to a gross-receipts basis on the business license tax and, after consulting with representatives of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, will stay with the flat fee plus number of employees, but with a recommended increase.

THE ONLY disagreement with the budget was voiced by Kent Bowers, representing Bowers Ambulance Co., who opposed the manager's recommendation that the Fire Department take over emergency ambulance service in Long Beach, starting Jan. 1.

An earlier request from the Friends of the Long Beach Public Library that certain library services not be cut was basically a misunderstanding and has been cleared up, Mansell said.

Mrs. Janice Sunshine, president of the Friends of the Library, agreed.

There also was a letter from the Alamitos Bay Beach Preservation Group, opposing "cutbacks for lifeguard and beach maintenance," but Mansell said he was "somewhat at a loss to ascertain what this refers to."

A REALIGNMENT of hours will result in a reduction of slightly over one man per year, he said, but this was the result of conferences with the Marine Department, which has no objection.

Mansell did reveal that his office is studying the advantages and disadvantages of turning both lifeguard service and beach maintenance over to Los Angeles County, as all other coastal cities in the county now have done. A report on this will be coming to the council soon, he said.

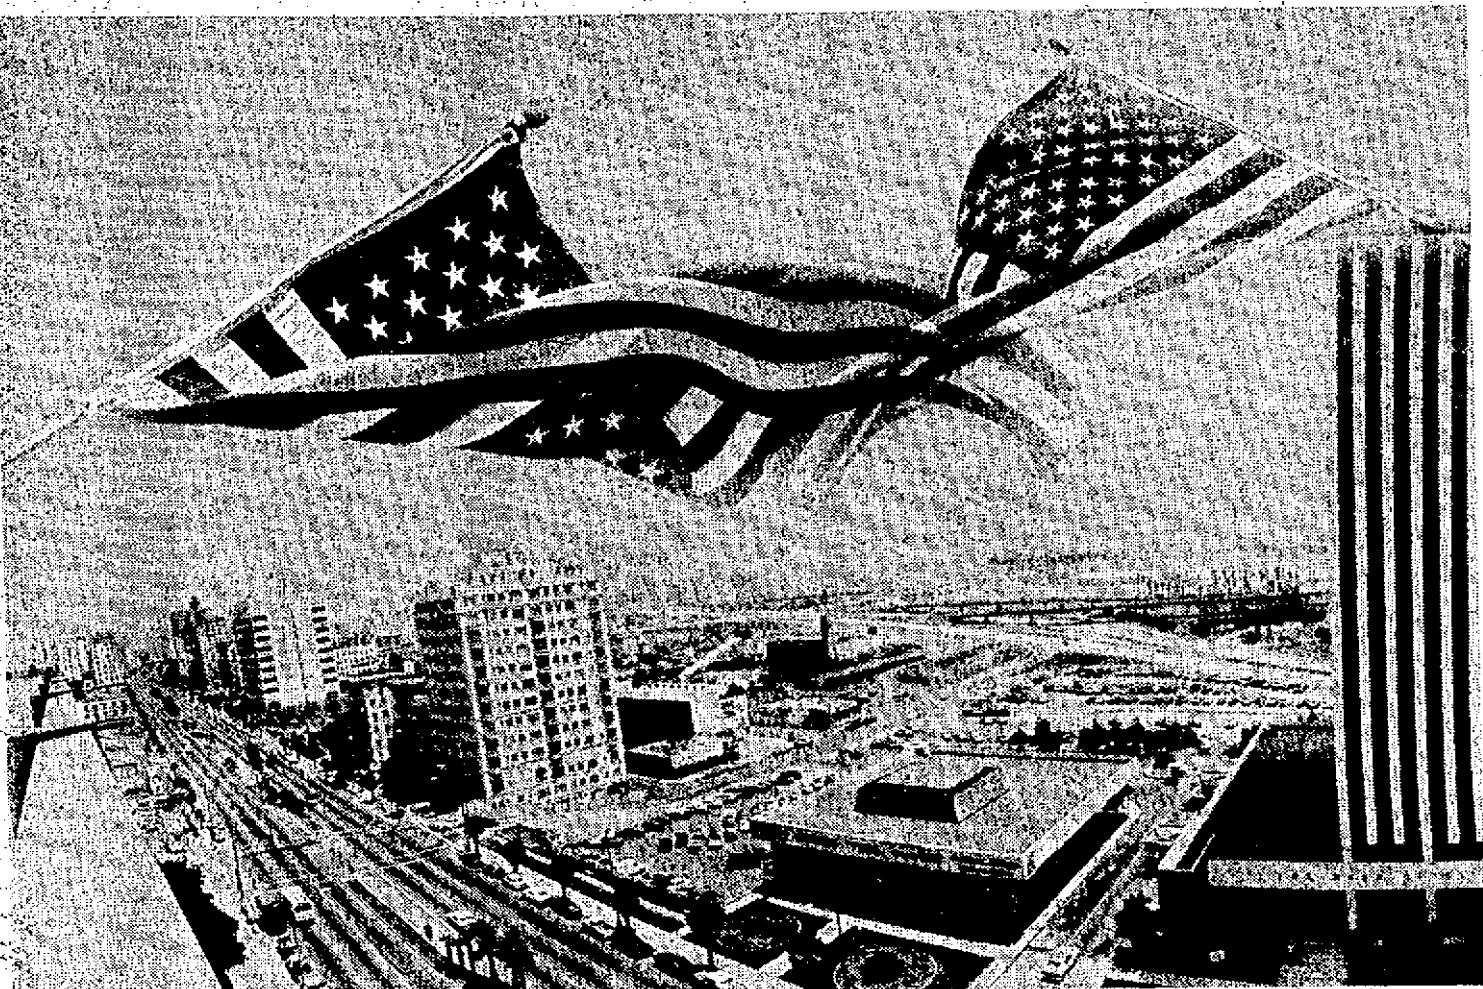

Bowers contended that the Bowers Ambulance Service, which now provides the emergency work under a contract with the city which pays it $67,000 annually, can do the job more economically, but Mansell disagreed.

THE CITY manager said the city initially will have to spend $120,000 to buy six ambulances, but that his budget and research staff estimate it will save $51,000 the first year and more than $100,000 a year thereafter.

The emergency ambulance service will be incorporated with the existing highly successful paramedic program, and will require no additional Fire Department personnel, he told the council.

"One of the biggest mistakes the city ever made was when it got out of the ambulance business," Mansell declared.

Stars and stripes stream over Ocean Boulevard from the ramparts of the county courts building in Long Beach, in this photo-montage by I.P.T. photographer Curt Johnson. Thousands more American flags, both modern and historic, are expected to fly over the Southland today, as the nation celebrates the 199th anniversary of its independence from Britain. The holiday also will be marked by aerial fireworks displays, which are scheduled this evening in most communities.

Naples land plot called 'white elephant'

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
Urban Affairs Editor

Another plot of land—this one in Naples—apparently will go vacant until the state comes up with a permanent workable land-use plan for the California coastline.

The decision came this week when, on an appeal action, the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission denied the proposed construction of a 15-unit condominium on expensive commercial property owned by retired Long Beach businessman Henry Katz.

The 12 state commissioners were unanimous in their decision, agreeing with staff planners that the proposed project "is not in keeping with the special quality and character of Naples."

They charged, further, that the "building as presently designed is not in accordance with the present Sasaki-Walker plan...exceeding density requirements by 45 per cent and the 36-foot height limitation recommended for the area."

The denial came after 1½ years of planning deliberations, coastal commission hearings, expensive delays, meetings with neighborhood groups, legal fees and the drawing and redrawing of plans.

The block-long site, located at 5950 Naples Plaza, surrounded by condominiums and commercial enterprises, went into escrow in December, 1973, when the Fullerton-based firm of Brattain & Associates entered into a contingency-to-build agreement with Katz.

Though proposed for the area that sustains Naples' highest density of development, Brattain's plans for an 18-unit condominium were denied by the South Coast Regional Commission in November 1974.

The project was approved by a 9-to-2 vote of the regional commission in April, however, after Brattain—attempting to comply with commission and neighborhood desires—reduced the density to 15 units for the five-acre tract.

That approval was appealed to the state commission by Charles Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davidson and Mike Dunn, all Naples residents.

Now Katz, former owner of Greta's in Belmont Shore, retains the vacant commercial property with its annual $5,000 taxes and no apparent use.

Long a controversial tract, it once held a honky-tonk bar, an abandoned filling station and a small neighborhood grocery store. Because of neighborhood complaints, Katz had those properties demolished several years ago.

"The land, it appears, has become a big white elephant for the owner," says Edwin Ross, growth development consultant for Brattain. "The only acceptable uses, it seems, are to leave the tract vacant or have the city purchase it for open space, which doesn't seem likely."

"As is, it's an eyesore—a weed trap where trash collects and residents walk their dogs," says Gene Page, Naples realtor who was handling sale of the property.

Also, she regrets the controversy "has split the community" and that, because of the denial, many widows who want to live in a condominium so they can remain in the price-escalating Naples area will be unable to do so.

First shake-up in decades

LBCPD shuffles captains' posts

The first top-level shake-up of the Long Beach Police Department in 20 years began Thursday with the shuffling of two ranking jail division officers.

The transfer of Capt. D.S. Drummond from the jail division to the patrol division and the elevation of Lt. G.W. Workman to jail division commander marked the first moves in a three-stage reorganization plan announced Wednesday by Acting Chief Ralph Kortz.

The announcement came on Kortz's second day as acting chief, a position to which he was named only two weeks ago with the retirement of former Chief William Mooney.

Kortz said the transfers of five captains and five lieutenants did not reflect on their competency but is "rather a matter of spreading experience around for the benefit of the department."

Two of the most surprising moves, effective July 16, took Capt. P.F. Landsdowne from captain of the juvenile division to captain of personnel and training, and Capt. J.M. Black, from captain of the detective division to records and communications.

Black had held his position in the detective division for 20 years, while Landsdowne had been head of the juvenile division since the police department took over that function from the department of social welfare in 1959.

Capt. R.L. Wolfe, head of personnel and training, will take Black's desk as chief of detectives.

On Aug. 1, Lt. R.D. Alfred will move from juvenile division to internal affairs investigations; Lt. W.F. Stovall will go from internal affairs investigations to vice division; Lt. R.L. Woolheather will move from vice to patrol division, and Lt. C.H. Parks will be transferred from patrol to juvenile division.

Captains F.H. Smith, R.W. Brown, Jr. and E.N. Meza will remain with the patrol division; Capt. A.W. La Rue will stay with the traffic division and Capt. J.W. Whatley will stay with the vice division.

People Talk

F.C. Anderson

LET'S FOLLOW our nose and see where it goes. Aside from the sweet smell of success, what are the aromas that trigger recollections and good associations? If you say fresh paint, welcome to the club. I'm as heady with the glories of sparkling white walls in my manse as Charlton Heston was when he surveyed the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel.

Inhaling all that enamel and latex paint caused me to remember other nasal pleasures:

- Chili sauce bubbling on an old wood stove.
- The whiff of bread and donuts emanating from a bakery on bitter cold mornings in the Middle West.
- Vicks Salve, mustard plasters and camphor balm around the neck. They were cold remedies, which on certain rainy mornings had more aromatic appeal than the smell of chalk dust and blackboard erasers in the classroom.
- Tar and asphalt sweating under a broiling August sun, the torrid touch of which sent small boys zipping their barefooted way to the public swimming pool and a nose full of chlorine.
- Barbecuing ham turning slowly on its spit in a breath-fogged restaurant window. Crowds of Depression have-nots stood outside sniffing the air, living vicariously. And I was one of them.

THE MUSKY water from the rain barrel, apples snug in the fruit cellar.
—Salt air at New Bedford, hot maple syrup dripping off flapjacks in Vermont, garlic beads on pizza in Chicago (where a newsman found temporary relief from the gas-bagging at the 1952 Democratic National Convention).

—Talcum powder, ether and the new-mown hay smell of a 7-pound son.

—Bridal bouquets, incense and the "something borrowed" lavender-scented lace handkerchief.

—Wax and polish on church pews on a Saturday morning.

—The after-shave lotion of an uncle on the East Coast who had done well, or so the family legend went.

—The smell of the fresh-from-the-showroom Chevrolet which you test drove in 1952 before settling on the 1947 Ford with the trick exhaust pipe.

—Hot paraffin topping and sealing the jelly jars of Concord grapes. You had picked the grapes for 5-cents a hamper and the privilege of first jelly taste.

—Salt water taffy and steamed clams at Revere beach.

—The bouquet of the altar wine you poured at 5 a.m. Mass. You once took a sip when the priest was robing before services, and you paid for it with a burning conscience, a conscience appeared at confession two days later when you blurted your "mortal sin" to the father. The priest yawned as he gave you one Hail Mary for penance. Ah, the wages of sin when one is 10.

Okay, nose, this is as far as it goes. Back to the grindstone with you!

WHERE WERE all the citizens at Thursday morning's budget hearing at City Hall? The nine members of the City Council almost outnumbered the audience.

I know it was a work day for wage earners, but that still leaves a lot of citizens unaccounted. Where were they? It was their money and your money the city manager and the City Council were discussing.

I just thought I'd ask. It's a citizen's business to ask questions. At least that's what I was taught in my civics classes.

The rights of man

Thomas Jefferson was conscious of the power of the presidency. He asserted that power to undo unconstitutional congressional action when he pardoned those convicted of violating the Alien and Sedition Acts, which Jefferson rightly regarded as an appalling mockery of the First Amendment.

Jefferson was proud of his accomplishments as President, the most notable of which was the Louisiana Purchase.

BUT WHEN JEFFERSON wrote the epitaph for his own grave marker, he omitted mention of his service as President of the United States. The stone was engraved, as Jefferson ordered: "Author of the Declaration of Independence, and of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia."

So Jefferson put the enunciation of ideas, the making of laws and the creation of institutions ahead of service as executive. In our day we can see more clearly than ever before how wise Jefferson was in his ordering of values.

"It fell to the lot of one Virginian to define America," historian C. Vann Woodward once wrote. Jefferson did that most notably in the Declaration of Independence.

HE ASSESSED that accomplishment himself in a letter he wrote in 1826, only days before his death. He had been asked to speak at the 50th anniversary of the celebration of the signing of the Declaration. Ill at Monticello, Jefferson wrote that "it adds sensibly to the sufferings of sickness to be deprived by it of a personal participation in the rejoicings of that day."

His letter offered what he surely knew would be his last statement on the Declaration of Independence. He said it "will be (to some parts sooner, to others later, but finally to all) the signal of arousing men to burst the chains under which monkish ignorance and superstition had persuaded them to bind themselves, and to assume the blessings and security of self-government. That form which we have substituted restores the free right to the unbounded exercise of reason and freedom of opinion. All eyes were opened, or opening, to the rights of man. The general spread of the light of science has already laid open to view the palpable truth that the mass of mankind has not been born with saddles on their backs, nor a favored few booted and spurred, ready to ride them legitimately, by the grace of God."

Jefferson expressed particular regret that he would be unable to be in Washington to enjoy "with the small band, the remnant of that host of worthies" who signed the Declaration, "the consoling fact that our fellow citizens, after half a century of experience and prosperity, continue to approve the choice we made."

On the morning of that Fourth of July, Thomas Jefferson died.

THE CITIZENS OF his land begin now a year of celebration of the action taken by Thomas Jefferson and a host of worthies in 1776.

The consoling fact for all as the nation completes 200 years of experience and prosperity, and of adversity as well, is that its citizens continue to approve the choice its founders made. They continue — despite all threats of an imperial presidency, despite drifts toward government without the consent of the governed — to reject the assertion that there are a favored few, booted and spurred, ready to ride them legitimately, by the grace of God.

Anticrime proposals

President Ford's proposal of mandatory minimum sentences for crimes is one of those ideas that sound good but that might in fact snarl the criminal justice system.

There is no way to eliminate plea bargaining from the system, for there will always be cases where any of two or three charges could plausibly be leveled. If the prosecutor concludes that chances of a conviction on the most serious charge are only 50-50, he may best serve justice by bargaining for a guilty plea on a reduced charge with the possibility of probation or a relatively light sentence.

BUT IF imprisonment is mandatory, even with a reduced charge, the accused person may well elect to take his chances with a jury on the most serious charge. That will lead to clogged court calendars. In some cases, it is likely to lead to acquittals where there should be convictions.

In other cases, where an accused person might now plead guilty of a serious offense in the hope of probation, he may be more inclined to attempt plea bargaining so as to be charged with a lesser offense where imprisonment would not be mandatory.

OTHER ASPECTS of President Ford's anticrime proposals are more useful.

One is the suggestion that compensation be provided victims of crime. If the federal government can develop a workable compensation program, it will provide a model for the states.

Similarly useful is the President's suggestion that new approaches be developed to deal with juvenile crime. Those approaches, Mr. Ford said, might include pretrial diversion programs for some young offenders. Here, too, the White House has the opportunity to help states develop intelligent programs for turning young people away from crime.

What others say

The CIA and assassination

From the Washington Post

It now seems clear that in the late Eisenhower years and the early Kennedy years, American officials contemplated measures to bring about the assassination of Fidel Castro of Cuba, a country with which the United States had sharp political differences but not one with which we were at war. President Kennedy, in particular, appears to have been prepared to consider this last resort after the fiasco at the Bay of Pigs when the United States failed miserably in its efforts to overthrow Castro by sponsoring an invasion of Cuba exiles in 1961. In view of the plain evidence that Washington felt threatened enough by the Castro regime to use covert violence against it, the allegations that the CIA was subsequently ordered to study a remedy as drastic as assassination should come as no great surprise.

Governor Brown's scorecard

By DOUG WILLIS
AP Political Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Midway through his first year in office, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has achieved four of 11 goals he set in his inaugural address.

And the 37-year-old governor is well on his way to achieving four other goals on that list within the next two months.

Farm labor legislation and avoidance of a tax increase are the two most prominent achievements. Repeal of the oil depletion allowance and completion of a public service job program are the other two inaugural goals attained during the first six months.

Brown has suffered setbacks in pursuit of two other objectives on the list he unveiled in his brief inaugural address.

There has been little visible effort to pursue the 11th inaugural goal, an increase in child care centers.

The Democratic governor worked with a legislature in which Democrats dominate both houses.

Here is Brown's scorecard, ranking him against his Jan. 6 inaugural agenda:

Successes

FARM LABOR — In his inaugural, Brown called for the right to secret ballot elections for all farm workers. A law taking effect Aug. 28 which specifies this is the top achievement of the new governor, who personally negotiated the compromise bill with warring factions.

NO NEW TAXES — Brown cut $100.3 million from the frugal $11.57 billion budget sent to him by the legislature, retaining a $313.6 million surplus as a hedge against tax increases.

OIL DEPLETION — In January, Brown called on the legislature to send him a bill repealing the oil depletion allowance. He signed it into law two months ago.

JOBS — Brown's first act as governor, announced in the inaugural, was to call on all the state departments to cooperate in creating federally financed public service employment programs in their agencies. The State Personnel Board said 1,700 such jobs have been filled since January, 200 more than the goal Brown set.

Pending

PREFERENTIAL INCOME — The governor asked the legislature to pass a bill imposing "a realistic minimum tax on preferential income." That legislation has passed the Assembly and is slated for hearings in the Senate in August.

HOME OFFICE — Brown asked the lawmakers to repeal the home office tax deduction for insurance companies, long labeled a tax loophole by Democrats. That legislation has passed the Senate and two Assembly committees and is awaiting a final vote on the Assembly floor.

BUSINESS TAXES — Brown endorsed a constitutional amendment reducing the required legislative vote to change bank and corporation tax rates from two-thirds to a majority. The Senate and Assembly have separately passed proposals to submit such a plan to voters in 1976. All that is left is the formality of getting one of those measures approved by both houses.

UNEMPLOYMENT — Brown asked the lawmakers to send him a bill extending unemployment benefits to farm workers. That legislation passed the Assembly and is slated for its final Senate committee vote Aug. 4, the day the lawmakers return from summer recess.

Setbacks

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING — Brown repeated in his inaugural a campaign pledge to support collective bargaining rights for California's 2.25 million public employees.

The governor hammered out agreement last month on a collective bargaining bill between labor and local government leaders. But both the Senate Finance Committee and the Assembly Ways and Means Committee balked. Some complained about the governor meddling in legislative affairs; others fought over details of the bill.

Now Brown has a problem. Even if he gets his proposal through the two committees, he must either wait until 1977 to enact it or find a way around parliamentary rules, risking more complaints of meddling.

ENVIRONMENT-EMPLOYMENT — "The state must cut through the tangle of overlapping environmental and land use rules which delay needed construction," Brown said Jan. 6.

No major legislation to accomplish that goal has been forthcoming. Brown's legislative reorganization plan to consolidate environmental programs was overwhelmingly rejected by the Senate. A decision over environmental impact reports on timber cutting plans, which indirectly relate to this issue, has been stalled until next year with interim legislation for a cooling-off period.

Status Quo

CHILD CARE — "We're not going to ignore the role of women in our work force, and the special needs for additional child care centers," Brown said in his inaugural address.

At that time, 50,500 children were in child care centers supported by $47.2 million in federal funds and $21.3 million in state funds.

Brown asked for and got in his budget $47.2 million in federal funds and $29 million in state funds for child care centers in the 1975-76 fiscal year. All the extra money is to cover inflation, and the centers are slated to care for 50,500 children again this year.

Another $38 million sought by educators for child care centers has been cut back to $8.2 million in the Assembly, and has an uncertain fate in the Senate.

Letters to the editor

Prescription risks

EDITOR:

You could have more accurately entitled your June 16 editorial "A risk to patients" rather than "A help to patients," because permitting pharmacists to substitute so-called chemically equivalent drugs for those prescribed by doctors can pose serious health risks.

In many cases, chemically equivalent products may be just that — chemically equivalent. Therapeutic variations can and do occur in such products for many reasons. Purity, solubility and inert additives such as fillers, binders, buffers and coatings are among the many factors that determine therapeutic action. The technological competence of the producer also has much to do with the safety of the drug.

Unfortunately, present federal standards are not enough protection. A 1974 report from the Office of Technology Assessment, U.S. Congress, concluded that "current standards and regulatory practices do not insure bioequivalence for drug products." A recently released report to the Congress cited the Food and Drug Administration for failing to inspect adequately 5,000 of 8,000 drug makers. For now, the only way to safeguard against sub-par substitutions is for product selection to remain in the hands of doctors who not only have practical experience with drugs but medical knowledge of their patients.

Drug substitution is not required in Medi-Cal. The Medi-Cal program merely sets a ceiling on the amount of money the state will reimburse pharmacists for a given prescription. If the price exceeds that ceiling, the pharmacist may call the physician and ask if a less expensive drug can be substituted. In other words, substitutions in the Medi-Cal program comply with the same patient protection law that applies to all prescriptions in California: they must be filled exactly as written unless the physician gives prior approval.

The recent Pharmacy Board action and the legislation you support would remove that safety clause. The only way doctors could prevent substitution would be to say so on every prescription form.

There might be some logic for enacting such legislation if monetary benefits would materialize. They won't. Significant consumer savings have not resulted in any of the states or Canadian provinces where substitution has been legal for several years.

There are other more practical methods for reducing prescription drug prices. One is to provide meaningful wholesale and retail drug price information to doctors. Another is to set up local utilization review systems where doctors and pharmacists monitor prescribing in their communities.

Enactment of substitution legislation could increase health risks, lower the overall standards of the nation's drug supply and ultimately disappoint consumers who will have been led down a primrose path in expecting huge savings.

What we deserve

EDITOR:

I was delighted with David Levinson's review of the Long Beach Symphony. He was much more kind than he should have been.

We really deserve the mediocrity, though. Long Beach hardly attends one of the world's truly great orchestras, the Los Angeles Philharmonic, when it visits us.

The Long Beach orchestra is like so much of our city now. Tacky city management. Tacky Queen Mary. Tacky music education in our schools. Tacky downtown shopping.

Block gas tax hike

EDITOR:

Two bills are now pending in the State Assembly designed to raise the tax on gasoline 1, 2 or 3 cents a gallon. Also, our legislators are looking for a salary boost which will also come out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

If you are opposed to an increase in the gas tax, get busy and write to our legislators and governor telling them so.

Notable, quotable

EDITOR:

On June 24, the Wall Street Journal had the following item in their "Notable and Quotable" section:

"Dr. Zbigniew Brzezinski, professor of government and international relations at Columbia University and director of the Trilateral Commission, a citizens' group concerned with relations among Western Europe, Japan and North America, in an interview with the monthly newspaper of the United Nations Association of the U.S.A.:

"I think that few people realize the extent to which the success of the Nixon-Kissinger policy depended on the unique combination of Nixon's and Kissinger's special gifts — and what I now have to say may come as a surprise. In my view, the really creative strategic impulses came from Nixon, with Kissinger a brilliant implementer, executor and adapter of the basic strategic concepts initiated by Nixon. With Nixon politically out of the picture for the last two years, the tactician has been both executing tactics and shaping strategy. As a result, we have an extraordinarily covert and fundamentally tactical foreign policy today, a policy lacking in strategic concepts."

It is refreshing to read a favorable report on President Nixon.

Helping women

EDITOR:

I write of that international women's rights conference in Mexico. Princess Ashraf Pahlavi of Iran gave a million dollars or more to promote and no doubt help womankind out of their ignorance, etc. I hope she is helping the poor to raise themselves to something and become woman at her best.

Why can't others with all that money do the same, even men? There is a place for woman in world affairs.

Thank God Mexico and its enlightened president are in our back yard!

The forgotten side of the Revolution

As we prepare to celebrate America's bicentennial, culminating a year from today, it is worth keeping in mind two separate sets of facts. First, our nation was founded by fighting for freedom; second, we did not want to fight, and took every possible step to avoid it.

If you read the statements and papers of the great early patriots, you will find that they were literally driven to revolution by the stupid, greedy and myopic British government, and the waxing insanity of King George.

OF ALL THE revolutions in history, this one was the least bloodthirsty. The British troops had no appetite for killing the colonials, and the Americans desperately did not want to commit what then was largely regarded as "treason" against the mother country.

All our Fourth of July pageantry represents only the first set of facts: the flag, the fife, the drum, the musket-man in bandages. But the more sober facts of history record the other side: that nobody from Washington and Franklin down, wanted a revolution, or even wanted independence, if the British would make decent concessions to our sense of right and justice.

Most of the colonists, in fact, did not sympathize with the revolution; only a minority supported it, the rest being either averse or passively neutral. Washington's most difficult task was getting and keeping enough troops on hand to combat the Hessian mercenaries hired by the British — for British soldiers were likewise reluctant to mow down their cousins.

MEN HAD TO be bribed and paid increasingly large bounties — and still not enough volunteers were to be had. Washington complained to Congress that many recruits took their bounties and then deserted. Sam Adams and his cohorts of the Boston Tea Party were widely regarded as "agitators," "radicals" and "extremists."

In a letter to Josiah Quincy, in 1783, Franklin wrote: "I join with you most cordially in rejoicing at the return of peace. I hope it will be lasting, and that mankind will at length, as they call themselves reasonable creatures, have reason to settle their differences without cutting throats; for, in my opinion, there never was a good war or a bad peace."

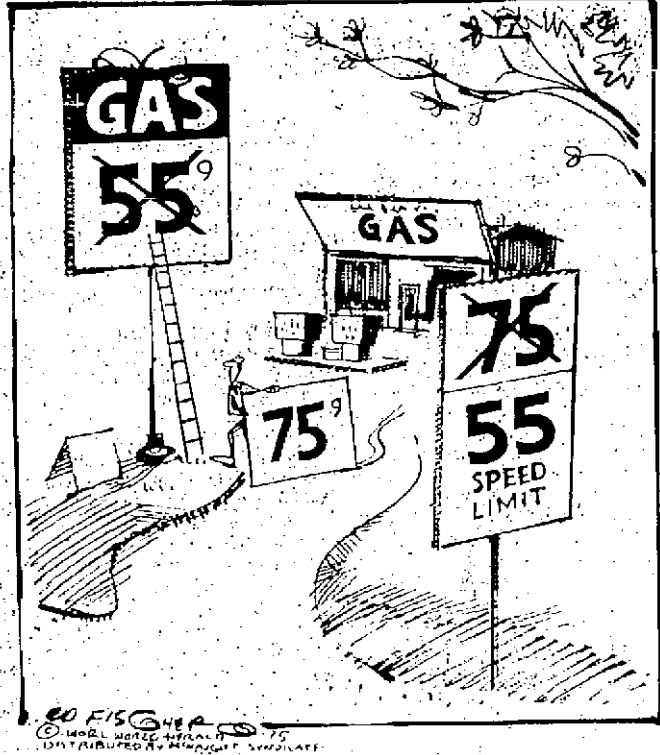

In commemorating our 200th anniversary, it is well to recall that we stood up for freedom, but it is distorting history, and the nature of our government, to forget that we sought peace to the point of supplication.

Ancient Oriental arts

The latest Oriental self-defense craze sweeping the country is called Bing Pu, after its philosopher-founder, an ancient Mongolian monastery abbot who was worried about crime in the yurts.

The sudden popularity of Bing Pu arises from the discovery of so many assaulted Americans that while judo, karate and kung fu may help protect them against attack by people wielding conventional arms — pistols, knives, blackjacks, bricks — they are not much help when confronted with more unorthodox weapons.

THE AVERAGE American, for example, has very little idea how to defend himself against attack by a man wielding a frozen lobster. The ancient Book Of Bing Pu prescribes the defense against this type of attack and alerts the student to sense when it is imminent.

"If approached by a group of young men, one of whom says, 'Pardon me, sir, but do you have a banana?', it is advisable to assume a position of self-defense at once," it states, "for you are almost certain to be assaulted by a frozen lobster."

The defense is scalding water. When the assailant pulls the frozen lobster from its holster and says,

Russell Baker

New York Times News Service

"Come across with the wallet," you quickly pour scalding water over the lobster. The shock snaps the lobster out of its rigor and it bites the hand that's holding it, thus disarming your assailant.

THE SAME defense is recommended against assault by a man wielding broccoli. Scalding water immediately starts, the broccoli cooking, and the assailant has to abandon the assault immediately and go looking for hollandaise sauce.

Bing Pu is more than a mere self-defense technique, of course. It is based on an ancient philosophical theory which holds that the person with lightning reflexes, muscles of steel and a ready supply of scalding water can walk the streets at any hour of the night with a 50-50 chance of survival.

Suppose you are walking a dark street and a sinister pedestrian stops you and says, "Pardon me, sir, but do you have a spark plug?" If you are schooled in Bing Pu, you will instantly recognize the warning signs and be prepared for assault by a man wielding a used car.

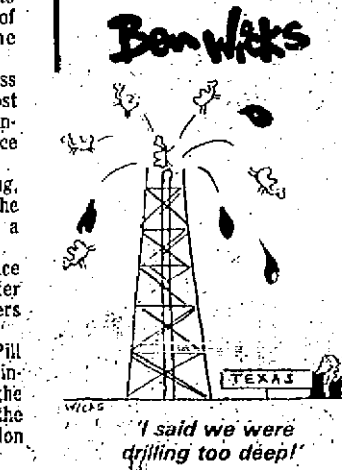

WITH YOUR fast reflexes, you instantly counter his request for a spark plug by asking, "Do you have a banana?" and while he is fumbling through his pockets to find one, you pour scalding water in his gasoline tank.

These are relatively simple defenses and students who master them are awarded chow mein belts, signifying that they have attained the first level of Bing Pu.

To gain that cherished egg-roll belt, however, more demanding trials must be passed, including demonstrations of breaking fortune cookies with the bare teeth and overpowering a rapist armed with watermelon seeds. Both feats require years of training and lonely meditation, and not until the ancient monks of Bing Pu have unanimously approved the student's proficiency is he permitted to become a candidate for the precious soy-sauce belt.

THE TESTS HERE are, for the most part, too harrowing to be described in a family journal. One of the least hair-raising requires the Bing Pu student to defend himself against attack by a man wielding a little old lady.

In a typical attack, the student

George Robeson He forgot to print this one — Alma

I REALLY DIDN'T THINK Alma was going to do it, but she did it anyway. Alma Dickinson is our secretary, and she was chewing me out over some dumb thing I'd done or a smart thing I should have done but didn't, and I told her she should air all her gripes in a guest column.

She wrote the column. From here on, the real George Robeson, according to Alma:

When George asked me to do a guest column, I was scared to death at the thought. Then, knowing George, my suspicious mind took over. There has to be a reason — he wants to have one column on hand in case he can't think of something to say or he wants another day off. No, it has to be more drastic than that. He wants me to mind his desk, to return his calls, to open his mail? Okay, George, what is it, REALLY?

Well, whatever the reason, this is my chance to get back at him. To let his readers know what he is really like. George is always saying nice things about me and I wish I could return the favor — but I have to be honest.

PEOPLE have strange ideas about bosses: they have regular 9-to-5 office hours; they can be reached in an emergency. I have worked for bosses who fit that description, but George isn't one of them.

There are times when I feel like a recording: "George Robeson's office... no, he isn't in... no, I don't know where he can be reached... no, he doesn't check in with me... yes, I'll be glad to take a message... no, I don't know when he will return the call, he usually comes in after 5 p.m."

The only reason I know that much is that I leave at 5 p.m. and I never see him. Oh, I know what he looks like, alright. I used to see him five days a week when he was a reporter for the Independent. And, of course, his photo now runs with the column.

I'm the one who decided it was time for a new column photo when he did come in before 5 one day and I didn't recognize him.

George is the most forgetful man I've ever known. He is forever losing things, like important messages, phone numbers, meetings, appointments, even speaking engagements. I have to keep duplicate messages. He calls me up and says he is supposed to call somebody and can't find the number. We lost a few good stories before I put that system into effect.

WEEKENDS are a problem. He files Monday morning's column on Sunday evening, so I put his messages with his Friday paycheck. What does he do? He forgets to pick up his paycheck. I give up on him, he's a hopeless case.

George is many things to many people. He is father confessor, miracle worker, lost-and-found department or just a good listener. They turn to him because they trust him. People either love him or hate him, as some of "letters to the Editor" have shown. Most of the people who call have problems. No matter how small the problem might seem, it's big to the person who's calling. For example, the man with the lost apartment. You can't imagine the time George spent trying to find it, checking cab company records, talking with cab drivers from different shifts, running down leads that led nowhere. He never found the apartment, but he sure put in time trying.

NOT TOO LONG AGO, he wandered in around 10 a.m. and I accused him of being lost. He said he knew exactly where he was. I asked him if his watch had stopped or he couldn't sleep. He said he just hadn't been to bed yet. As a matter of fact, he hadn't been to bed for two days. He had been with police who had just wrapped up a case.

And don't let any nice things I've said turn your head, George — you can still expect the same nasty notes if you don't change your ways. How about a memory course?

—Alma

THANKS, ALMA, but I don't need a memory course. I recall that case the cops and I were working on. Do you know how long it takes for three guys to finish a whole case?

Androgens (male hormones) can be effective in the treatment of decreasing libido (sexual drive) in both men and women, says a famed endocrinologist, Dr. Robert Greenblatt.

The number of patients who have been helped by acupuncture is probably much greater than one could expect from a placebo (an inert dummy pill), a New York researcher says.

Malignant hypertension, a rapid progressive form of high blood pressure that can lead to death, has been controlled for periods of up to 24 months with an experimental drug, minoxidil.

Pollen counts are not necessarily accurate indicators to predict or explain the severity of allergic symptoms, reports the American Academy of Allergy.

Older persons daydream less often, a new study shows. Most men over the age of 75, for instance, daydream only about once a week.

Procaine, the anesthetic drug, may be useful in alleviating the symptoms of sickle cell anemia, a USC researcher reports.

The drug alprenolol can reduce the number of sudden deaths after heart attacks, Swedish researchers report in the journal Lancet.

Some women who take The Pill become depressed, and in some instances the administration of the vitamin pyridoxine can correct the depression, University of London researchers report.

"I was just thinking, it was a little Fourth of July celebration at Claremore, on July 4th, 1899, that they had a steer roping, and I went into it. It was the first one I ever was in, the very first thing I ever did in the way of appearing before an audience in my life. Well, as I look back on it now, I know that had quite an influence on my little career, for I kinder got to running around to 'em and the first thing I knew, I was just plum ornery, and fit for nothing but show business.

Once you are a showman, you are plum ruined for manual labor again."

Customs' shift affirmed amid rising protests

for collocating in the downtown area of Los Angeles."

Similarly Robert Baker, the regional director of investigations, wrote that he felt the move to downtown Los Angeles "would have a detrimental effect" on his department's relationship with other customs agencies.

Martin pointed out that there were "no operational or other benefits (that) would be gained from a downtown location...there are many detriments." He also told Bergesen at the time that he had 12 to 15 official government vehicles for which he had ample free parking space on Terminal Island, but it "would cost from $2 to $3 per car per day should we move to a downtown location."

"I can see no reason why the Customs regional offices should be located in the downtown area of Los Angeles," Martin wrote, "and you have previously advised that there is not sufficient space in the Federal Building where you are currently located for your own needs much less enough space for collocating the balance of the regional personnel."

Baker also cited problems involved in the move, including the fact his office operates 40 vehicles which are parked at no cost at the Terminal Island Customs House. However, he said he had been informed the costs would range from $45 to $85 per month per vehicle in the downtown area.

"Would the moving of this office and the regional director, security and audit, to downtown Los Angeles enhance the Customs mission more than remaining at the site of the major operational activities?" Baker asked.

HIS ANSWER to his own question: "In my opinion it would not."

In addition at a March 13 meeting of the regional management team, both directors again voiced opposition to other proposed moves, including the move of the highly sophisticated sector communications network to downtown Los Angeles.

Claiming there was "no justification" for the move, both directors "pointed out that there would not be any users of the sector communications located in the downtown area, and they both felt that nothing would be accomplished by the move except further expending of the taxpayers' money."

SPACE PROBLEMS cited by the Washington customs official, in his answer to the congressman, are nonexistent, according to Customs House employees, who claim there are currently unoccupied office spaces.

Coast Guard officials also verified this week that plans are to move their operations out of the Customs House, possibly by the end of the year. The move would leave a quarter of the second floor of the structure vacant.

Meanwhile, it was learned that officials now occupying the seventh floor space in the downtown Los Angeles Federal Building—space expected to be used by the transferred customs personnel—are unaware that they might be without office space.

"I HAVEN'T heard about it yet," James T. Hall Jr., regional manager for the General Accounting Office, said Monday. "But I wouldn't be surprised. The customs people have been expanding in this building."

"We need more space and we haven't been able to get it in this building either. We may have to go somewhere else—on a lease arrangement—in another building in the civic center."

Also unaware that they may be moved to make way for transferred Customs people, are staff members of Congressman Ed Roybal's office.

"We're not moving," a spokesman for the Congressman said. "It was our understanding just two weeks ago, that Customs had already completed all the acquisition of space they were going to use—they still haven't completed tearing out the walls on their last acquisition."

BETTY DOVE, in charge of space allocations at the Federal Building, said she was aware of the plans to relocate field managers in Customs. However, she said in a telephone interview, the planning hasn't progressed to the point where "we know exactly what's going to happen."

"I don't know at this point how many will be moving," she said. "But there's not enough space right now, anyway. However, GSA (General Services Administration) will make the arrangements to relocate people to make room."

SIMILAR problems were faced by Customs people some 10 years ago when it was decided to build the Customs House in the harbor area.

Then Commissioner of Customs Philip Nichols Jr. found the downtown Los Angeles site "objectionable because of unresolved congestion and parking problems which would engender great inefficiency of operations and hardship to employees because it would permanently disunify Customs operations and would commit Customs permanently to an eccentric location."

The idea, according to then customs officials, was to provide efficiency, save money and to place the operation where the bulk of business is done.

Today's officials—despite a $6 million customs house designed for them—disagree.

Chel recaps legislative session

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Assemblyman Fred Chel, D-Long Beach, recapped the just-adjourned legislative session for Long Beach Optimists Thursday, detailing the most newsworthy business but also accenting action "to satisfy the public demand for complete openness, honesty and responsiveness in government."

Included in this category: Bills which extend reporting and disclosure requirements of Proposition 9, the Political Reform Act of 1974, to public officials not covered by the initiative.

Passage of the California Public Records Act (by the Assembly) making the spending accounts of the governor's office and Legislature open to inspection by the press and the public.

Building upon previous reforms to make all conference committee meetings open to full public view, including the recording of all committee votes.

No more "ghost voting" in committees by proxy, and full public access to the staff analyses upon which members of the Assembly often base their votes in policy committees.

Chel said also that introduction of spot bills and "quickie" committee meetings in the rear of the chambers have also been eliminated.

"Fewer bills and more carefully drawn ones have been introduced," Chel said, 525 fewer than in the same period of 1973. The reduction may range between 1,000 and 1,500 bills by the 1976 end of the session, he said.

"Staff reductions, coupled with these reforms, are expected to produce a $2.5 million savings in the Assembly's operating budget through next year," Chel said.

The year's unfinished agenda, which legislators will address when they return to Sacramento in August, includes:

A number of bills pending to reform the grand jury system, to improve the handling of juveniles and to make prisons do a better job.

The unresolved issue of public financing of election campaigns and methods for improving the ability of citizens to participate in the electoral process including possible postcard registration or even affidavits for instant voting eligibility.

Public Utility Commission reforms already approved by the Assembly and now pending in the Senate.

Assembly-passed and Senate-pending legislation repealing fair trade laws and lifting the ban on drug price advertising and generic drug substitution in prescriptions.

Chel said, "We also have to resolve proposals increasing senior citizens property tax assistance and providing better health and social environments for the elderly."

Noting that the freeway-building era is over, Chel said the attention of state government has now shifted toward finding fast, safe, energy-efficient and economical ways of moving people.

"Not only must we reach some sound, long-range conclusions guiding the role we intend to play in mass transportation but also to rectify the damage that's been done to our health and environment by the internal combustion engine," Chel said.

L.B. Council approves $216.8 million budget

Bowers said that when the city decided in 1953 to turn emergency ambulance service over to private companies, it was losing $67,500 a year. Mansell said such losses occurred in times before there was "widespread" insurance and such plans as Medicare and Medicaid, which help finance ambulance costs.

THE ONLY changes made in Mansell's recommended budget were two minor ones, which resulted in a $4,600 reduction in proposed expenses during the year.

One, recommended by Mayor Edwin W. Wade, was to terminate city membership in the Pacific Asian Conference of Municipalities, which costs $2,000 annually, and also in the U.S. Conference of Mayors, to which the city pays $3,000 annually.

The other was to add $400 to the city clerk's budget for purchase of a transcriber, which had been overlooked in the initial request.

Mrs. Simon noted that the departmental budget for the city manager's office showed an increase in personnel from 16 to 23 and asked about the new people.

MANSELL SAID these were the staffers for the new affirmative action office, which the council suggested be carried with in his department.

Mrs. Simon also noted that the city attorney's office staff is increased by five persons, and expressed the hope "it will not be necessary to have as many outside consultants."

Asst. City Atty. Edward T. Bennett said outside consultants are hired primarily in specialized areas where it would not be feasible to hire a staff member just for that particular knowledge.

Mrs. Simon also commended the city manager's office for introducing the "program performance" approach to budgeting, but asked if the council, in adopting the 1975-76 budget, would be "locked in" to its provisions.

"Definitely not," said Mansell. "This is a three-year program, and I expect changes will be made."

Drug-death trial put off

Former Wall Street "whiz kid" Kenneth Moss, charged with murder in the drug overdose death of a rock musician, was granted a one-week postponement in Los Angeles

Thursday to enter a plea. Moss' attorney, Charles R. Breyer, told Superior Court Judge William L. Ritz that he had just been retained to defend Moss and needed more time.

Stepping Out

By TEDD THOMEY

CELEBRATING THE FOURTH OF JULY WITH TASTEBUD FIREWORKS — In a way, tastebuds are man's most mysterious organs. It's possible that people's tastebuds are as dissimilar as their fingerprints. If it were possible to analyze the tastebuds of a million people, we would doubtlessly find subtle differences indicating that no two persons react exactly alike to the same foods.

Stick your tongue out and examine it in the mirror. Notice those tiny nipples across the surface? I'm not an anatomy expert, but I've been told that your tastebuds are located in those nipples where they enjoy almost instant contact with the food you place in your mouth.

It is, my belief that tastebuds change with age. I hate to think that they wear out as one grows older. When I was a teen-ager, I disliked most spicy foods. I disliked wines, finding them strong and bitter. I hated beer; it was much too powerful, even sipping at times. Generally I shunned spicy foods, wine and beer until I was in my early 30s. Then I began to really enjoy them.

Had my tastebuds deteriorated with age? Or had they been educated? I suppose it's been a combination of both. Young tastebuds are perhaps so sensitive they overreact to stronger flavors. Older tastebuds are more talented in some ways and more selective, reacting with the greatest pleasure to exotic flavors, the stronger the better.

Which brings us to the subject of the Fourth of July and Chinese food. Most of the Chinese restaurants in the greater Long Beach area serve foods that are mildly seasoned. Many of those dishes are Cantonese, referring to the Canton region in the southern part of China. Long Beach area restaurants featuring such dishes are successful and well-liked, because people love those mild flavors.

We also have a few restaurants featuring Mandarin dishes, which originated in the central and northern parts of China. Some Mandarin dishes are mild; some are hotter and spicier; and some are very hot!

Mandarin-type restaurants are becoming more and more popular as people's palates become more educated and seek more exotic and different seasonings. One of our newest is the Mandarin House (formerly the Wong House), 306 Main St., Seal Beach. The Mandarin House isn't a big plush place. It's an attractive family restaurant owned by Cho Kang Liu who is from Anwei in central China. The Anwei province extends to the west of Shanghai and includes part of the Yangtze River.

The Mandarin House has mildly flavored dishes for those who prefer them. It also has hot and spicy dishes, intelligently marked on the menu with stars as a warning to the unwary. When this dept. visited the other night, we tried the No. 2 dinner, which includes kung pao chicken, marked with a star.

When the kung pao chicken was served by our waitress, Shih Ling (Cho's pretty wife), she warned us that it contained red pepper pods. "Do not eat those pods," she said with a smile. "Very hot!"

I carefully removed two of the small pods. Then we ate the kung pao chicken. It was absolutely wonderful with a different kind of flavor, strongish and spicy but not overwhelming. It was so delectable that even our teen-aged daughter (who dislikes too-spley foods) thought it was scrumptious.

Our corner of the dining room was a bit dim, which explains why I overlooked the third red pepper pod. I bit into it. Wow! — and double WOW! WOW! I got it out of my mouth as quickly as I could. Even so, my mouth was treated to a pre-Fourth of July display of rockets, fiery pin wheels and mortar blasts.

When I mentioned later to Cho that I'd set my mouth on fire, he smiled and told me that quite a few of his Caucasian guests enjoy eating those red pepper pods. "They don't think they're too hot," Cho said. "In fact, they keep asking for something hotter!"

Obviously, I've got a lot to learn yet about hot foods. I guess my tongue nipples haven't progressed as far from the teen-age stage as I may have thought.

SUPERB HOT AND SOUR SOUP, PEPPER STEAK, TOMATO SHRIMP AND PAPER-WRAPPED CHICKEN — The Mandarin House, open every day — including holidays — from 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., has three family-style dinners for two or more persons and two dinner choices for one person. Three of the dinners are mildly seasoned. Two have some hot and spicy Mandarin dishes as well as mild ones. Two dinners are $2.85, one is $2.95 and another is $4.95.

Our choice was the No. 2, $3.95. It had two Mandarin creations marked with stars — the kung pao chicken and the hot and sour soup. The soup wasn't overly spicy and sour. It was different, but just right. The pepper steak was mild and included lots of tender beef strips with green peppers and vegetables. The tomato shrimp was a mild gourmet creation with lots of plump shrimp and a tasty sauce. We also enjoyed fried shrimp, egg fried rice, chicken tidbits wrapped in foil, a pot of tea, fortune cookies and almond cookies. (The tomato shrimp is included for a party of three.)

The $2.95 dinner is mildly seasoned. Most interesting are the A and B dinners, $2.85 each. The A dinner is Mandarin and includes the hot and sour soup and the kung pao chicken and other items. The B dinner is entirely mild, including soup of the day, egg roll, fried shrimp, sweet-sour pork, egg-fried rice, tea and cookies. Also featured are many a la carte dishes, children's plates with chicken salad and French fries, coffee, ice tea, U.S. beer and Japanese Kirin beer.

Verdict: Superlative, rich flavors. We recommend the Mandarin House enthusiastically.

ENTREES THAT MAKE LIFE MORE BEAUTIFUL: Francois' Manhattan restaurant, 1909 E. Fourth St., near Cherry Ave., won't be open for luncheon today, because it's a holiday. But it will serve its sumptuous continental-American dinners today starting at 4 p.m. My wife and I continually offer the highest praise for this restaurant which combines three important requirements: top cuisine, top service by waiters and waitresses and a hospitable old world decor and atmosphere. Francois' Manhattan's dinners, from about $4.95 (for glorious chicken cacciatore or stuffed fresh mushrooms) start with imaginative relish tray and include tureen of the most delectable fresh soup, also tossed salad or spaghetti, potato or rice, assorted breads, tea or coffee and ice cream or sherbet. The menu has dozens of entrees, each a gem, including lobster thermidor, beef Stroganoff, baked shrimp, prime rib and glorious chateaubriand. Mrs. Pat Wise is the Manhattan's cheerful, hard-working general manager.

"Marvelous margaritas. Thanks for recommending Lechuga's!" I often get comments like those from readers after they visit Lechuga's Mexican Restaurant, a large establishment at 12245 E. Carson Street, just east of Norwalk Boulevard. Lechuga's has gold tequila margaritas which are remarkably delicious. Owner Charles Z. (for Zaragoza) Lechuga features 18 fresh, delicious Mexican combination dinners, $2.40 to $2.90. The No. 16 for $2.40 includes chili relleno, taco, soup or green salad with choice of dressing, fried beans with cheese and fresh Spanish rice. Also featured are top sirloin and Porterhouse steaks, $4.35, with soup or salad, baked potato and vegetable. Charles Z. keeps his prices low because he buys his supplies in big quantities and passes the saving on to his customers. Thursday through Sunday nights, Lechuga's large entertainment lounge has dancing to the Alba Azul five-piece Latin band which includes five vocalists.

One of the most successful and best-liked innovations to hit the restaurant industry in many years! That's my opinion of the Polly's Pie restaurant on Atlantic Avenue near Wardlow Road. It features something Americans have long been fond of — the best fresh pie, the best fresh coffee and big fresh hamburger sandwiches. Polly's has five different kinds of coffee, brewed fresh throughout the day and night. It bakes its own fruit, nut and cream pies and they are wonderful. Whole pies can be bought to take home. A terrific deal at Polly's starting nightly at 5 is the combination for $1.85, a big Pollyburger hamburger, a slice of that luscious pie, one of those five great, aromatic coffees or Pepsi or tea. Currently in season at Polly's is fresh olallie berry pie. An olallie berry is a cross between a blackberry and a Young berry. It's big and juicy. Don't worry if you can't pronounce it easily. Few people do. Just say ooh la lallie and those pretty waitresses at Polly's will understand!

(Cont. From Preceding Page)

For so many years. Its chef de cuisine is Fred Hossli, who directs a staff of experts in a kitchen so immaculate it shines like a great silver bowl. I love Chez Cary because each creation is so incredibly fresh and the wine sauces sing with pleasure (well, almost.) The Chez is at 571 S. Main St. near the Garden Grove Freeway. You'll definitely need a reservation and the number is (714) 542-3595. The Chez will serve today from 6:30 p.m. on, offering beef, seafood and veal delicacies, a la carte. A dinner for two can be $25 or more with wine — and worth it!

Quite often throughout the day and night you will hear a chop-chop sound coming from the kitchen at Chee's Chinese Food, a colorful, modern restaurant at Willow Street and Golden Avenue. That chop-chop sound is proof of the freshness of the luncheons and dinners at Chee's, long one of Long Beach's best. The chefs use sharp, heavy cleavers to chop the fresh, crisp vegetables, chicken and beef which go into the Chinese creations. Wonderful snow peas (absent today in many Chinese restaurants because of high costs) are included with a lot of Chee's dishes. The No. 1 family dinner is $3.15; the No. 2 is $3.55, the No. 3 is $4.25 and the No. 4 is $5.75. Each has a variety of different flavor contrasts. The No. 4 dinner has such gourmet attractions as seaweed soup, lobster Cantonese, barbecue ribs, Mandarin duck with pineapple, maw good gai pin and other items. Chee's has American dinners, beer, wine and child's plates. It is owned by Elmer and Louise Chee. Elmer is an athlete, expert in golf, tennis and karate. He has inspired his young grandsons, Kenny and Bryan, to take up tennis.

Speaking of freshness and wonderful steak flavors, put the La Briques down as restaurants which you must definitely try. They are so popular and so highly praised that none of their foods stay in storage very long. As a result, the steaks, salads and vegetables have that standout flavor which makes each taste so pleasurable. The La Briques are on Springdale Street near Bolsa Avenue about a mile south of the San Diego Freeway and in Bellflower at Roserams and Woodruff Avenues. They are owned by Larry Myer. He and his right hand man, Randy Donner, have one of the best-trained wait-staffs anywhere. They're friendly, alert, mature women who enjoy their work and show it. Everybody's favorite at the La Briques is the top sirloin, $4.45. Other favorites are the porterhouse, $5.45; filet mignon, $4.95; prime rib, $5.45, and lobster tail, $5.95. That's the best beef, juicy and savory. The La Briques have inexpensive luncheons, prize-winning cocktails and feature their top sirloin and prime rib dinners for 50 cents less Monday through Wednesdays.

IRRESISTIBLE STOPS ON A COOK'S TOUR: The best barbecue restaurant by far in this area is Love's Barbecue, a good-looking, red-accented establishment on Lakewood Boulevard at Candlewood Street, open every day for luncheon and dinner, cocktails, wine on tap and many specialties. Jewell Deans has been No. 1 chef at Love's since it opened five years ago. She's an artist at barbecuing the choicest meats in fiery wood pits which burn orange tree and eucalyptus logs. Love's ribs, beef, pork, ham and chicken are juicy and so savory with barbecue goodness that people smack their lips and cry: "Unbelievably good!" Love's recipe for barbecue beans is the envy of restaurateurs everywhere. Featured are barbecue sandwiches; luncheon plates and such dinners as chicken, $3.25; pork or ham, $3.95; ribs, $4.65 and beef, $4.15, all with soup or green salad or coleslaw, beans, fresh French fries, kosher pickle and toasted French bread. The so-called "light dinners" for smaller appetites feature all those side dishes and such entrees as 1/4 barbecue chicken, $2.45.

It's really a surprise. It's the all-you-can-eat fish dinner for $1.38 every Friday at the Bradford House restaurant in the Grant City department store on Atlantic just south of Del Amo. Many people think that $1.38 price is a misprint because it's so low. But the Bradford House, attractive and efficient, is able to serve something delicious at that price because manager Dessie Rescorla and her staff know exactly what they're doing — and they do it well. Included are fresh French fries, creamy coleslaw, roll with butter and deep-fried fish. Also featured is strawberry shortcake, 59 cents. Throughout the week the Bradford House (open Sundays, too) has many low-priced family meals.

Alma Kruse of Los Alamitos asked her husband playfully: "Why don't you ever surprise me?" So her hubby, Dr. K.N. (Nick) Kruse astounded her by arranging a big surprise birthday party in her honor at Puccini's Artesia restaurant, 17720 Pioneer Blvd. Scores of guests attended, enjoying one of owner-chef Nick Nicolette's gourmet Italian smorgasbords. The restaurant, and also Puccini's at 4205 Atlantic Ave., Long Beach, are famed for creations with deluxe flavors, such as poached turbot Benedictine or filet of Pacific red snapper saute Florentine, both $2.85 with antipasto, soup or salad, pasta, garlic bread and fruit.

Red, white and blue finals at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, (AP) — It will be Jimmy Connors against Arthur Ashe on Saturday and the first all-American men's singles final at Wimbledon in 28 years on the center court grass of the All-England Club.

Connors, the defending champion, in his best form of the tournament, tamed big-serving Roscoe Tanner, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4, Thursday and Ashe outlasted Tony Roche of Australia, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5, 6-0, 6-4.

In Saturday's final, Connors will be seeking to become the first American to win two consecutive men's titles since Don Budge in 1937-38. Ashe will be seeking his first Wimbledon victory in 12 years of trying.

The last time two Americans vied for the title was in 1947 when Jack Kramer beat Tom Brown.

But more is at stake than the title and the $23,000 first prize. There also is a grudge. The maverick 22-year-old Connors has filed libel suits totaling $5 million against Ashe, president of the Association of Tennis Professionals, and other members of the tennis establishment.

A lot is at stake, too, today when Billie Jean King bids for her sixth Wimbledon singles crown in a rematch of the 1972 final when she beat Australian Evonne Goolagong, now Evonne Cawley. If she wins, she could equal the all-time record of 19 women's titles won by Elizabeth Ryan between 1914 and 1934. "Bunny" Ryan won all of her crowns in doubles, but Ms. King's trophy case includes singles, doubles and mixed doubles titles. A win would also tie Billie Jean with the legendary Suzanne Lenglen for the most singles wins.

Her chances to surpass the over-all record were dashed in the doubles quarter-finals Thursday when she and Rosemary Casals were beaten. Francoise Durr of France and Betty Stove of The Netherlands triumphed, 2-6, 8-6, 6-2.

Her only other chance, in mixed doubles, faded when her partner, Roche, withdrew with a slight muscle pull.

When the men's singles play began on the center court Thursday, sun gave way to overcast skies but failed to deter 17,000 fans, many of whom had spent the night sleeping on sidewalks to get a standing room view.

The wait was worth it. They saw a variety of fine tennis—elegance of stroke play from Ashe, rugged determination and muscular effort from Roche, cannonball services from Tanner.

Connors had all of that and more. Against Tanner, a young left-hander like himself, he raced around at breakneck speed, flung himself about to reach the wide balls and hit spectacular shots that had the crowd shouting with excitement.

Bookmakers, operating at Wimbledon for the first time, made the 22-year-old champion an 2-11 favorite to retain his title. Odds against Ashe were 4-1.

Tanner, 23, outscored Connors 13-3 in aces. He aces the champion four times in his first three service games, and the keyed-up crowd waited for something exciting to happen.

But in the next hour the tall, fair-haired Tennessee learned there is more to tennis than aces.

When Connors did get his racket to Tanner's first serve, then the faster Tanner served and the faster the ball came back. When Tanner's first serve was off target, Connors was ready to pounce on his second effort.

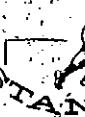

Tanner had a brief spell of glory and won the first service break on two good forehand passes and a lob for a 4-3 lead in the opening set. But that was the signal for an incredible performance from Connors. He broke back immediately and won four games in a row and nine out of 10.

In the final set, with Tanner serving at two games apiece and deuce, Connors hit the shot of the day. He met a full-blooded smash from Tanner and hit a forehand from the baseline. The ball flashed past Tanner and bounced just inside the back of the court.

Between rallies, Connors strutted about the baseline like a little Napoleon.

"My form today was the best ever, better than when I won the final last year," he said. "I was driving and jumping and sliding and slipping and still getting to balls I didn't think I would get to."

The Ashe-Roche duel lasted more than twice as long and often was tedious

Garvey sparks win, rekindles Dodger hopes

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

It took the Dodgers 11 days but they finally managed to gain some ground on the Cincinnati Reds.

The deficit is still rather sizeable—seven games—but after Thursday night's 7-1 romp over the San Francisco Giants, accompanied by a rare loss by the Reds, at least the Dodgers are again going in the right direction.

The biggest cheer in a

Dodger of Day

STEVE GARVEY homered, doubled, singled and drove in five runs as Dodgers beat Giants, 7-1.

week went up from the 35,929 fans assembled at Dodger Stadium when the Reds' loss at San Diego was posted.

"That really gave us a lift," admitted Steve Garvey whose five runs batted in—on a homer, double and single—provided something of a lift too. Garvey's bat has won the last two games for the Dodgers and he has nine hits in his last three games.

"I'd have to say these last two games, the extra inning win over San Diego and this one tonight over the Giants who really embarrassed us last week, show that we're getting things back together. But when we heard that Cincinnati lost I think everyone just sort of said, 'Hey, here's a chance.'"

Not since June 22 had the Dodgers gained so much as a half-game on the Reds. Now, suddenly, they're talking again about catching up with the leaders in the National League West.

"If we can gain a game on 'em each week, we'll overtake 'em," said acting manager Tom Lasorda, counting his weeks very carefully. "I believe we can do it, too."

Don Sutton picked up his 12th win, joining teammate Andy Messersmith as the N.L.'s only 12-game winners. He gave up a run in the first inning, then went into the ninth having scattered only a half-dozen hits. But when he gave up hits to the first two batters, Lasorda immediately summoned Mike Marshall. Iron Mike whipped up a double play and a ground-er and suddenly the Dodgers had back-to-back wins for the first time since the third week in June.

It was Garvey's bat that provided both victories—he has won Wednesday night's game in the 14th inning—and it was his home run in the seventh inning, his 10th of the year, that snapped a

Happy ending for Angels —but not Ryan

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Attired only in a towel, Nolan Ryan restlessly paced the Angel clubhouse Thursday afternoon in a silent yet succinct expression of frustration and depression.

You couldn't blame him.

In the seventh inning, the Minnesota Twins were written off as deceased. They were trailing Ryan, with plate umpire Jerry Neudecker which only served further to illustrate his anxiety, Ryan was yanked from the game. The primary reason was the fact the score now had reached 6-6.

There was a happy ending for the Angels, if not for Ryan. Joe Lahoud, baseball's only player of Lebanese extraction, and who is sometimes referred to as the Beirut Bomber, tripled home Winston Llenas in the ninth inning to present the visitors with a 7-6 success.

But it was a success Ryan could not identify with.

"When you have a six-run lead and can't hold it you can't blame anybody but yourself," Ryan managed to explain. "I was as upset at myself as I've ever been. This was a season I felt I was going to show progress, but I think I've regressed more than progressed."

Ryan, laboring in 90-degree heat which was

Sports quotes worth remembering

It has been an inspiring year thus far, as the sports family can attest through these quotes gleaned for the first six months:

Mickey Rivers (when asked this spring how many bases he thought he could steal in '75)—"I want to double my limit."

Gordie Howe (asked if he thought Reggie Fleming was a "hard-nosed" hockey player)—"I don't know. I never felt his nose."

Boog Powell (on Cleveland's new home uniforms, which have an abundance of red cloth)—"I feel like a massive blood clot."

Muhammad Ali—"Sometimes I wish I were a dog, and Howard Cosell was a tree."

Mrs. Woody Hayes—"I was asked to talk about sex and marriage, but being a football coach's wife, I don't know much about either."

Rocky Bridges (discussing a young catcher on his Phoenix club)—"He really wants to play. If he isn't careful, he can louse things up for everybody else."

EDDIE SUTTON, Arkansas basketball coach, commenting on the decision to use lie-detector tests during probes of recruiting violations—"If you strapped a couple coaches I know into a polygraph chair, they'd be electrocuted."

Charlie Finley—"If writers had a brain in their heads, they would still be idiots."

Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee—"We're not idiots. We are using our little brains as best we can."

Cid Edwards, when traded from the Chargers to the Bears—"It could have been worse. I could have been asked to play here another year."

Al McGuire, Marquette basketball coach (on why he wasn't contacted by UCLA as possible successor to John Wooden)—"They don't want anybody who uses a vocabulary or even spits."

Chicago writer Bob Verdi—"Cub fans are a special cult. They are brought together by suffering."

John McKay—"Football is never dull. Only people are."

McKay (on confidence)—"When I was duck hunting with Bear Bryant, he shot at one, but it kept flying. 'John,' he said, 'There flies a dead duck.' That's confidence."

Howard McHugh, Boston Celtic publicity director—"I want to be there when they go to bury Bill Russell. He probably will refuse to go in the ground."

FATHER JOHN DUGGAN, unofficial team chaplain for the Pittsburgh Steelers, who said Mass the night before every Steeler game the past three years—"I'm going back to Ireland. You might say that I'm praying out my option."

Minnesota pitcher Joe Decker—"I want to pitch my way into arbitration."

Ed Kranepool—"Arbitration came too late for me. I'm in the twilight of a mediocre career."

Martha Watson—"I'd be a rich lady real good in Rio (de Janeiro)."

Alex Agase, Purdue football coach (on why he does not bother to recruit in California)—"Any kid who would leave that wonderful weather is too dumb to play for us."

DUFFY DAUGHERTY (asked if his 10-0 season in '65 at Michigan State was his finest)—"Well, I think you could say it's one of the best starts we ever had."

Daugherty (recalling that Michigan State went 3-7 in '67)—"We won three games, lost none and were upset in seven."

Comedian Paul Lynde (on how to cure a man of compulsive gambling)—"Give him the Atlanta Falcons and four points."

Oakland infielder Dick Green (on why he quit baseball)—"Cattish Hunter is the best pitcher in baseball and the A's won't win without him."

Rene Muth, of the Immaculate College women's basketball team (on changes in uniform styles)—"The year we won our first national championship (1972) our uniforms were tunics with a blouse and a belt, and bloomers underneath a skirt. It looked like a maternity outfit."

TOM CAHILL (recalling his days as football coach at West Point)—"We had lost our sixth game and were just getting on the bus when a woman came up to me and said, 'Sign this petition to get rid of Cahill.' I damn near signed it."

Muhammad Ali—"Hank Aaron is the only person I idolize more than I do myself."

Should a gentleman be courteous? No way!

TV-RADIO NOTES & QUOTES:

Should a gentleman be courteous and let a lady go first? Not when there is $350,000 at stake, such as there will be on Sunday when Foolish Pleasure, winner of the Kentucky Derby, faces unbeaten filly Ruffian in a match race at Belmont Park. CBS (Ch. 2 locally) will televise the event live as a special edition of its CBS Sports Spectacular. The telecast will begin at 2:30 p.m. and the horses should go to the post about 3 p.m. Chic Anderson, who blew the call in the Kentucky Derby, should be able to keep track of a two-horse race. He'll be assisted on the telecast by Jack Whitaker as host, Frank Wright as race analyst, Haywood Hale Brown on post-race commentary and Phillis George as a roving reporter. Radio station KNX (1070 on the dial) also will carry the race, beginning at 3 p.m. Win Elliot will handle the color and commentary and veteran Ray Haight will call the race. A couple of workhorses, Jimmy Connors and Arthur Ashe, will fill the spotlight on Saturday when their Wimbledon men's singles tennis championship match will be carried on NBC (Ch. 4) at 2 p.m. The women's singles title match between Billie Jean King of Long Beach and Evonne Goolagong Cawley of Australia will be played today and taped for Saturday viewing at 9:30 a.m. NBC's announcing team consists of Jim Simpson, Julie Heldman and Bud Collins. Simpson, who does a variety of top events for NBC, says Wimbledon is "THE sports event" of each year for him. "I do baseball, football, golf, basketball... but nothing can match the magic of Center Court at Wimbledon," says Simpson. "There's an indescribable aura about this particular tournament." Don Bernstein, former sports publicist at UC

Santa Barbara, has been appointed NCAA Media Director for ABC sports by the network. He'll be chiefly responsible for college football telecasts. Bud Furillo's Steam Room show on Ch. 9 has gone off the air. Furillo hopes to return on a different channel and at a better viewing time than the 10:30 p.m. slot he was given at Ch. 9. Some of Furillo's shows were outstanding. Boxing from the Olympic offers a dandy Saturday night at 9 when once-beaten Alberto

Carlsbad hosts U.S. Women's championship

What happened to cycling?

By ALLEN WOLFE
Staff Writer

Three weeks ago, Gerrit Wolinski, a 33-year-old dentist from Holland, won the Hang Ten U.S. Grand Prix Motocross, before 33,000 spectators at Carlsbad Raceway.

He beat an international field of 50 riders from 14 nations at the San Diego County track, generally considered to be one of the most demanding obstacle courses in the world.

The atmosphere will be slightly different today and Saturday. For one, the Florida. That figure is expected to climb to 350 this year.

A $20,000 base and contingency purse has been posted by Sambo's Restaurants and the Yamaha Corp., co-sponsors for the race, which is being sanctioned by Encino-based Powderpuffs Unlimited, Riders and Racers (P.U.R.R.).

The all-female event covers every facet and form of dirt motorcycle racing, ranging from grammar school minipuffs on minicycles, to the

WHY DO girls want to race? Kasey Rogers, actress-turned-motorcycle enthusiast and promoter of the race, believes it's basically for the same reason the men race.

"Chemically, we're the same as men," she says. "When we're out there the adrenalin starts pumping and the competitive instinct takes over. Winning is just as much a thrill."

"People constantly harp about the element of danger. Sure, motorcycle racing is a 'risk' sport, but it's far less dangerous than football and competitive skiing."

"The speed is fun. It's challenging. It's a tremendous personal victory to even pass one person in a pack during a race."

"There's a feeling of accomplishment when you improve. It's a personal kind of thing, not a team effort. When you're out there, it's between you and the bike."

Miss Rogers, who began riding motorcycles less than two years ago and classifies herself as a novice racer, dispels the common belief that women motorcyclists are anything less than feminine.

"No, they don't weigh 200 pounds, smoke cigars, carry chains or have tattoos. They don't have 'athletic walks' like most other women athletes. They're fresh, clean-cut girls, and they're cute. But they would also like to be known as serious racers."

THE LARGER Grand Prix events—one to two hours in duration—will utilize the same 1.9-mile international course used by such stars as three-time World 500cc motocross champion Roger DeCoster of Belgium and current champion Heikki Mikkola of Finland. Visible in its entirety, the course features hairpin turns, hills, sand jumps and fast straightaways.

Besides the traditional minicycle, 100, 125 and 250cc displacement categories, this year's event has been sanctioned for experts mounted on the big-bore 350, 500 and 750cc machines.

Action begins both days at 9 a.m. Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for juniors 12-16; $2 for children 6-11 and free for those under six.

Carlsbad Raceway, approximately 70 miles south of Long Beach, can be reached by taking the San Diego Freeway south to Palomar Airport Road and following the signs east for five miles.

DRAG RACING—James Warren of Bakersfield, three-time winner and defending Pacific Southwest (Division 7) top fuel champion, heads the list of entries for the Winston World Championship regional points meet today and Saturday at Irwindale Raceway. The 35-year-old irrigation salesman, driver of Roger Coe's "Rain for Rent" dragster, failed to qualify in the Division 7 opener two weeks ago at Sacramento and is in danger of losing the championship he has dominated the last three years. The purse is $30,000 for the two-day meet—one of 43 World Championship Series points meets across the country leading up to the Winston World Finals at Ontario Motor Speedway in October.

Joining Warren, who owns the Irwindale track record of 5.97 seconds, will be such standouts as Larry Dixon, Billy Meyer, Dave Ugelstad, Lee Hunter, Gary Burdett and Roger Gerten. Qualifying will be held today from 5 to 10:30 p.m. and from noon until 5 p.m. Saturday. Eliminations start Saturday at 8.

SPRINT CAR RACING—Defending California Racing Association champion Jimmy Oskie and Clark Templeman, son of two-time USAC midget champion Shorty Templeman, head the field of drivers for the Firecracker 50 sprint car race Saturday at Ascot Park. Racing starts at 7:30.

MIDGET RACING—Roy Cook Jr., winner of his third main event last week, figures to be the favorite when U.S. Racing Club midgets race tonight at Bakersfield Speedway and Saturday night at Speedway 86 in Irwindale.

MOTORCYCLE RACING—Jeff Sexton, who finished first in the scratch main event and second in the handicap main event last week, goes after a similar performance tonight in Speedway Racing Association action at Orange County Fairgrounds in Costa Mesa. First race starts at 8:15.

Valley Cycle Park in Moorpark hosts a minicycle-motocross event Sunday starting at 9:30 a.m. Defending World 500cc motocross champion Heikki Mikkola of Finland and former three-time champion Roger DeCoster of Belgium have signed to compete in the 500 Super Bowl of Motocross July 19 at the L.A. Coliseum. The event carries a $30,000 purse. Defending AMA Grand National champion Kenny Roberts will be among more than 100 riders competing in the $50,000 Monterey Superbike International road races Aug. 23 at Laguna Seca Raceway on the Monterey Peninsula. Steven Fikes, 25, of Los Angeles, in a coma since June 22 when he lost control of his motorcycle during practice laps at Ontario Motor Speedway, died Tuesday in Ontario Community Hospital of massive head injuries. Officials said it was the first fatality at the OMS track since it opened in 1970.

SPORTS CAR RACING—Riverside International Raceway plays host to the Independence Day Sports Car Club of America national championship points races Saturday and Sunday. Twenty-one classes of cars, ranging from the sleek Formula A open-cockpit machines to the powerful A production Corvettes, will compete over Riverside's 3.3-mile, 3-turn long course. Activity begins at 8:30 a.m. each day.

STOCK CAR RACING—The annual Firecracker 200 series for U.S. Racing Club late-model stock cars takes place this weekend—tonight at Speedway 605 in Irwindale and Saturday night at Orange Show Speedway in San Bernardino. The series consists of two 100-lap main events, with the overall champion being the driver to accumulate the most points. Heading the list of drivers are the Becker brothers—Chuck Jr., Rick and Randy. Racing starts at 7:30 both nights. . . . Saugus Speedway offers a Firecracker 110 for Sportsman division stocks Saturday night, followed by a sky-diving contest. . . . Figure 8s share the spotlight with fireworks tonight when Ascot Park stages its Firecracker Open that includes a demolition derby, air circus and fireworks. The Figure 8s return to Ascot Park Sunday for a 100-lap marathon at 8. . . . Street stocks go tonight and Saturday at Corona Raceway.

OFF ROAD RACING—Defending champion Bobby Ferro, in a hand-master dune buggy and Bombero 300 winner Fritz Kroyer, in a Hi-Jumper, are among more than 200 entries for the Bicentennial Firecracker 250 today. The rough desert race starts at 4 p.m. near the Lenwood exit on Interstate 15.

The lady is a racer

Penny Miller, a 17-year-old native of Sun Valley, is typical of the new breed of female motorcycle racers who will be competing today and Saturday in the second Yamaha Women's National championships at Carlsbad Raceway. Miss Miller, a junior-ranked rider, will be joined by 300 other competitors in $20,000 all-female event.

Pair beat lightning, share lead

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fast-finishing Gibby Gilbert and Ken Still tied for the clubhouse lead Thursday, moments before lightning, rain and darkness forced suspension of the second round of the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

Gilbert fashioned a six-under-par 66, best of the day over the 7,011-yard Tuckaway Country Club Course and was tied with Still at 135, nine under for 36 holes. Still posted a 67 Thursday.

Art Wall, the 1959 Masters Champion but winless on the tour since 1966, was five-under par for the day and 10 under for the tournament when lightning forced him and 26 other golfers off the course.

Wall, who needed to play just one more hole to finish his round, and the others who did not finish were scheduled to resume their second rounds this morning from the points at which they stopped.

Miller Barber, the first-day leader with a 65, bogeyed his first two holes Thursday, but recovered for a 71 and 136 total, one behind Still and Gilbert. Also at 136 after a pair of 68s was Dave Hill.

Third-year pro Andy North, one of three players who began the second round two strokes behind Barber, posted a 70 Thursday and was the clubhouse leader at seven under for the tourney until Gilbert, Still, Barber and Hill finished under encroaching darkness. North completed his round shortly after lightning had interrupted play for an hour early in the afternoon.

Terry Small of Long Beach shot 70 for a 36-hole total of 144.

Defense was the big question mark when training camp opened for the Sun, but coach Tom Fears said things look better than he had expected.

"We're much stronger both offensively and defensively," he said. "I had my doubts about the defense when we lost linebacker Cleveland Vann but we're much more physical up front and that's where the battle is won." Vann wound up signing with the Miami Dolphins.

However, the defensive line that starts for the Sun Saturday evening of Charles DeJurnett, Rick Kukulica, Dave Roller and Neal Skarin averages 265 pounds. Roller led the WFL in quarterback sacks last year and the other three are 6 feet 4 or more.

Davis and 240-pound Greg Herd start in the backfield behind Lamonica and one of the offensive tackles is 14-year pro veteran Joe Carroll, who starred for the Rams.

A crowd of about 15,000 is expected for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Due to win, Allison says

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Veteran driver Johnny Rutherford led the way Thursday as the final 20 spots in the Firecracker 400 stock car race were filled, but none of the late qualifiers appeared ready to challenge the leaders.

Rutherford toured Daytona International Speedway's 2.5-mile trioval in 177.465 miles per hour in a Chevrolet, far off the pace that victory-starved Donnie Allison set in winning the pole position for today's race.

Allison, seeking his first NASCAR victory since 1971, captured the pole Wednesday with a speed of 186.737 m.p.h. He will share the front row with Buddy Baker, while David Pearson, winner of the last three Firecrackers, sits behind him in the second row.

"I'm due, Lord knows I'm due," Allison said of his bid to regain the Firecracker title he captured in 1970.

Allison had won the pole position for the Daytona 500 here in February, only to be knocked out of the race in the 36th lap by a broken fuel pump.

While Allison's crew went over his Chevrolet Thursday in an effort to eliminate any mechanical failures which have plagued him in the past, Pearson declared himself ready.

"The car feels good, we'll be all right," said Pearson, who won the pole last year. This time, his Mercury's speed of 184.018 m.p.h. was third best in the trials.

Richard Petty, who has finished second in the race the last four years but never has won a Firecracker, remained unhappy with his Dodge.

Qualifying Wednesday with a speed of 180.032 m.p.h., Petty said Thursday, "We've changed the engine, the springs, the manifolds and just about everything else and we're still running 180. We just started with the wrong setup and it doesn't look like we're going to catch up."

But Baker, who qualified his Ford at 184.687 m.p.h., wouldn't discount Petty. "Anything over 178 can run right in there with us if they want to keep a fire lit all day," he said.

The top 16 qualifiers all topped 178 m.p.h.

Rutherford said he blew two engines, and finally had to qualify using a borrowed engine. "I don't feel good at 177. I'd like to get to 180 or 181 to have a better chance at drafting," Rutherford said.

Jackie Rogers, who finished second to Rutherford in Thursday's qualifying with a speed of 177.060 m.p.h., added, "I figure we're good enough at 177 or 178 to finish in the top 10."

DONNELL CULPEPPER

Choice today: hot boats or Transpac

If you are a boat-racing fan and want to watch the hot boats, go to the Marine Stadium this morning. The West Long Beach Lions Club and the Southern California Speedboat Club will be presenting the 26th Inboard Sprint Regatta from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

There will be 14 classes of boats trying for records on the oval course. Robert Stack, the movie and TV star, has promised to spend considerable time in the pit area signing autographs for the youngsters. Oh yes, he'll sign for the moms, too. Stack is one of those rare celebrities who holds many records in the outdoors. He won't be at the wheel of a 225 horse, but he probably could. He holds a large perpetual trophy for having won championships in that class for three years in a row.

Bill Blatnik and Mike Mercado, cochairmen for the Lions, say that all the net proceeds will go to their own club charities. The price of admission is $3.50 for adults; kids under 12 go in free if accompanied by their parents.

The day's program gets under way at 9:45 a. m. with the regatta queen, Kim Aldstadt, presiding over the opening ceremony.

Many of the racing crews and spectators from out of town arrived at the Stadium Thursday evening and spent the night. This is a new arrangement which the Long Beach Recreation Department hopes can be made permanent.

RAGTIME, THE 62-FOOT SLOOP that flies the colors of the Long Beach Yacht Club, is the scratch boat in the 26th biennial Transpac Yacht Race that starts at 1 p. m. today from the staging area off Pt. Fermin. That means that Ragtime must give away more time than any other boat in the race.

Ragtime has been almost unbeatable in elapsed time in most of the races that she has entered. She is regarded as a "super-flyweight surfer" among sailors and the Transpac Race Committee has handicapped her so much that she gives away four days and eight hours to the boat at the bottom of the handicap range. That boat is Brooks Barnhill's Enterprise, an Erwin-37 sloop.

The meaning of all that is that if Enterprise should reach Honolulu four days and even seven hours after Ragtime's finish, she could win over Ragtime on a handicap basis.

Ranking second in the handicap range is Windward Passage, Mark Johnson's 73-foot ketch. Ragtime beat Windward Passage to Honolulu's finish line two years ago by four minutes, 31 seconds in one of the most thrilling races ever staged by the Transpac YC.

Ragtime at that time was owned by a Long Beach YC syndicate of six men. The syndicate has been changed, with Dr. William White, Arcadia, and William Pasquini, Rowland Heights, the principal owners. Stan Miller, one of the former owners, will be aboard today, and his remarkable sailing knowledge will be one of the principal factors in the race.

IF YOU ARE A SMALL BOATER and want to see today's Transpac action, you would be wise to stay well out of the staging area, which will be patrolled by U. S. Coast Guard boats and aircraft. No private boats will be permitted in that area; only official Transpac committee boats and the press boat will be allowed in the area. The Los Angeles Harbor Department again is providing the Angels Gate tug as the official press boat.

Two boats that were listed in Thursday's roundup of 67 yachts and printed in this section have been withdrawn. Those were the 61-foot sloop, Joli, owned by William F. Miami Jr., of Seattle, and Jerry St. John's 46-foot sloop, The Saint, of Hollywood.

Best vantage points today will be on the Pt. Fermin bluff area. Indications from the U. S. Weather Bureau are that visibility will be excellent for the start of the race.

The other big yacht race today—the eighth Marina del Rey-to-San Diego overnight run—will begin in a staging area off Marina del Rey at noon, and the 300 yachts should be well under way downcoast before the start of the Transpac. There is little chance of seeing the several classes of yachts in action in that race unless you want to watch the finish at San Diego Saturday morning.

KNN radio (1070), however, will have daily reports on the Transpac race, at 5:43 and 6:43 p.m. Those broadcasts will be repeated at 8:44 and 10:44 later in the evening.

Angler lands $1,000 trout; two remain

JUNE LAKE SPECIAL—The second of four $1,000 rainbow trout planted in the lakes of the June Lake Loop was caught Thursday afternoon in Grant Lake by Ralph Johnson, of Wofford Heights, Calif.

He was fishing from shore and casting a small lure near the boat-launching ramp when the trout hit. The fish weighed 1 pound, 5 ounces.

Two $1,000 trout are left, one in June Lake, the other in Gull Lake. In addition, there are four leftovers from the 1974 trout program. Each is worth $250 and each one is in a different lake.

This marks the first time the Russians have ever played in the Southland.

The Long Beach match kicks off a 13-day cross-country tour in which the Soviets then play in San Diego on the 4th, Phoenix, El Paso, Chicago, Dayton, Washington D.C. and New York.

Lamonica will QB Sun for first half

Daryle Lamonica starts at quarterback and a trio of University of Southern California offensive stars are prepared for duty when the Southern California Sun opens the 1973 World Football League season Saturday night.

Lamonica, the longtime Oakland Raider signal caller, will play the first half for the Sun when they take on the San Antonio Wings in an exhibition game at Anaheim Stadium. Either USC's Pat Haden or Fullerton State's Mike Ernst will be at quarterback in the second half.

Haden will have high school and Trojan teammate John McKay as a target. Anthony Davis, the Trojan backfield star, will see much action.

Gary Valbuena, who was with the Sun last year, starts at quarterback for the Wings. He went to San Antonio in the trade that brought Paul Miles, a running back, to the West Coast. Miles, who played with Memphis last season, gained more than 3,000 yards in three years at Bowling Green University.

Defense was the big question mark when training camp opened for the Sun, but coach Tom Fears said things look better than he had expected.

"We're much stronger both offensively and defensively," he said. "I had my doubts about the defense when we lost linebacker Cleveland Vann but we're much more physical up front and that's where the battle is won." Vann wound up signing with the Miami Dolphins.

However, the defensive line that starts for the Sun Saturday evening of Charles DeJurnett, Rick Kukulica, Dave Roller and Neal Skarin averages 265 pounds. Roller led the WFL in quarterback sacks last year and the other three are 6 feet 4 or more.

Davis and 240-pound Greg Herd start in the backfield behind Lamonica and one of the offensive tackles is 14-year pro veteran Joe Carroll, who starred for the Rams.

A crowd of about 15,000 is expected for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

'Odd Couple,' 'Night Stalker' final episodes slated tonight

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

Two former favorites of America's television viewers will make their final appearance on the tube this evening, and, since it's the Fourth of July, few may even notice their exit.

Oscar Madison and Felix Unger are a couple of pretty good guys, and it seems almost unpatriotic to kill them off on the nation's birthday. But "The Odd Couple" has reached the end of its run — or rerun.

Starting next Friday night, ABC will replace the comedy series and "The Night Stalker" with a movie. Neither of the two series will return in the fall.

TONY RANDALL

Jack Klugman and Tony Randall, who have been portraying Oscar and Felix for five years, are two of the best comedy actors in the business — and they both have won Emmy Awards on the series.

They've brought a lot of laughter to millions, and the series will be missed by many. But perhaps five years of Oscar-Felix quibbling was enough, and Jack and Tony are sure to go on to other things.

In tonight's final episode, which aired originally last March, Felix remarries his former wife, Gloria, played by Janis Hansen. That should be enough to break up any odd couple.

The show airs from 9 to 9:30, a half hour earlier than usual and immediately following "The Night Stalker," which is leaving the tube after just one season.

"M-A-S-H" will be back for another season — its fourth — in the fall, but it won't seem the same.

McLean Stevenson, who played Lt. Col. Blake, quit the CBS series to sign a contract with NBC, and Wayne Rogers — Trapper John — also has pulled out.

The reason for Rogers' dissatisfaction — and perhaps it was a key factor in Stevenson's departure, also — seems to be that the third star, Alan Alda, as Hawkeye, was getting all the best of it in the comedy's scripts. Rogers has said that rapper John's role was supposed to have been as important as Hawkeye's.

Anyway, CBS has announced the signing of two new regulars for the 1975-76 season. They are veteran actor Harry Morgan and Mike Farrell, who was a star on "The Interns" series.

Morgan, who has been a regular on a number of TV series, the latest of which was "Hec Ramsey," will be the new commanding officer of the Mobile Army Surgical Hospital outfit as Col. Sherman Potter.

Farrell will play Capt. B.J. Hunnicutt, a clean-cut young surgeon, recently married and recently drafted.

Alda and costars Loretta Swit as Hot Lips, Larry Linville as Maj. Frank Burns and Gary Burghoff as Radar will still be around in the fall, when the series is scheduled to move from Tuesday to Friday night in the CBS lineup.

NBC has announced that Stevenson will star in a one-hour variety special to be telecast in the fall, and that it will be a pilot for a possible series. McLean frequently fills in for Johnny Carson on NBC's "Tonight" show.

JERRY DUNPHY, newscaster with KNXT (Channel 2) for 15 years, will join the KABC-TV (Channel 7) news staff on Aug. 18, the latter station has announced. Dunphy will take a brief vacation after leaving Channel 2 on July 18.

In early June, KNXT news director Jim Topping announced that Dunphy would be replaced as anchorman on Channel 2's 6 p.m. news program by Joseph Benti, the 11 p.m. anchorman, and said Jerry would become a special news analyst and commentator. Instead, Jerry will become a Channel 7 anchorperson.

At the same time, Topping announced that Bill Stout, KNXT's 5 p.m. co-anchorman, with Sandy Hill, would be replaced by Pat Emory, a former Channel 2 staffer who moved to CBS' St. Louis affiliate. Emory also will anchor the 11 p.m. news show.

KGER (1390 AM) in Long Beach will broadcast a 20-minute Fourth of July talk at 2:05 p.m. today by Claude Bunzel, curator of Independence Hall and Colonial Research Library at Knott's Berry Farm. His topic: "The Source of Our Freedom."

THIS MORNING'S Huntington Beach Fourth of July Parade will be telecast from 7 to 9 tonight on Channel 50.

Why Miss L.G. flew from Hawaii to buy her new Monarch. Yes, she could have purchased the car in Hawaii. She naturally will have to get it serviced there but she knew that when it came to value and paying the right price, Murphy Lincoln Mercury just can't be beat. We don't expect people to fly 3000 miles to buy a car from us, but sometimes it makes sense to save hundreds and hundreds of dollars. Why don't you try us today? For a free lube and oil change at no charge, bring this advertisement in to our service manager next Monday, Wednesday or Friday.
